THE EMPEROR of Ethiopia's capital stands more than 10,000 feet up in the mountains, but Mussolini's planes can go higher.

Friday, Addis Ababa and the emperor's palace were raked with machine gun fire, and fire-works, no bombs, serving notice on the population to move. Mussolini ordered "smash the Ethiopian empire," and the smashing is under way.

Mussolini, determined to "smash the empire" is anxious to kill as few as possible in the smashing and his men "sprayed Addis Ababa" with rockets, displaying the Italian colors, green, white and red. They frightened the Ethiopians more than machine gun bullets.

You wonder what became of those "tropical rains" that were to make Mussolini postpone fighting until next fall.

WHEN WILL the "decisive battle" come, if ever?

The big "war" that was to end all wars, promises to start half a dozen new wars soon. When, if ever, will some great battle end war for good?

It probably would be an air battle reaching all around the world, involving continents, with one great power emerging powerful enough to say to the others "thou shalt not kill,
and enforce the order.

OF CREASY'S fifteen "decisive battles of the world," each was important, and contributed to civilization. But compared to the final great "decisive battle," if it comes, those earlier battles would be as trifling fights among wolves. They include the battles of Marathon, Syracuse, Arbela, the Metastasis, the victory of Arminius, at Charles, The Hammer, Hastings, Orleans, with Joan of Arc, Blenheim (which later made a duchess of an American Vanderbilt girl), Poltava, Valmy (a victory for the French revolution), Waterloo, where a methodical Englishman and a German fighter, Blucher, "conquered" Napoleon. whose genius had died on the way back from Russia.

These and all the others are as nothing compared to battles that are coming, with improved scientific killing.

IN MIAMI, a lady, first name Lois, and married, has husky triplet babies.
Two gentlemen, the official husband and one other, demand custody of the triplets, each calling himself the real father. The alleged "father" who is not the husband would submit to any blood test, his lawyer says.

How would King Solomon decide that?

"LUCKY" LUCIANO, wanted in New York as head of a profitable vic-ing dealing in women, shouted "kidnaped," as detectives started him, handcuffed on his way to New York for trial. He was said to be "bewildered, quite lost, without his oat-ery of criminal lawyers who had prevented his extradition for two weeks."

NEW YORK WOMAN BEATEN TO DEATH

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—The partly clothed body of a woman who apparently had been beaten to death was found under a tree today in a residential section of Queens, Long Island.

Police said the woman was about 35, with bleached blonde hair. She was clad only in a lavender sweater suit with a yellow belt and a pair of stockings. On one finger was a ring with a red stone.

Medical Examiner Howard Neal of Queens county said the woman had been badly beaten, possibly with a blunt instrument, and that her skull was fractured. He said there was evidence she had been carried to the spot after she was slain.

GUILTY PLEA ENTERED IN COUNTERFEIT CASE

MUSKOGEE, Okla., April 18.—(AP)— Brack Bengt, 26, of London, Ky., entered a plea of guilty at his arraignment before a U. S. commissioner today to a charge of possession of counterfeit coins. Lester Richardson, 27, who said his home is at Tyler,
Tex., pleaded innocent.

The third youth, Fred Johnson, 23, was freed after Bengt stated that Johnson was not implicated.

The three were arrested yesterday by Deputy U. S. Marshal C. A. Hunt after he made a "deal" with two of them. Confiscated and introduced before the commissioner as evidence were several bogus half-dollar pieces and a chalk mound.

Bengt and Richardson were returned to federal jail.

INVADERS PRESS TOWARD 2 CHIEF ETHIOPIAN CITIES

Southern Army Reported To Have Engaged Forces Of Ras Nasibu

LEGIONS STILL FAR AWAY FROM OBJECTIVE AT HARAR

Italian Navy Makes Preparation For Eventualities In Mediterranean

By Andree Berding
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

ROME, April 18.—(AP)—Marshal Pietro Badoglio's troops drove forward on two fronts toward the two principal cities of Ethiopia today.

Although official reports were lacking, the best-informed sources said
Gen. Rodolfo Graziani, commander of Italy's southern army, had engaged the forces of Ras Nasibu in battle on the "Harar line" but that the Italians still were a long distance from the city of Harar itself.

The occupation of Jipiga, controlling the road from Berbera to British Somaliland was believed imminent, and as soon as Jipiga is occupied, the Fascists intend to take Harar.

While Graziani's men fought what was reported to be the fourth day of a battle for Harar, an Italian column in the north continued to move along the road to Addis Ababa.

Fascists in the homeland prepared for a great celebration Tuesday, the traditional anniversary of the founding of Rome by Romulus and Remus.
Tuesday, they said, would enhance the glories of the "Eternal City," for on that day, they predicted, the Ethiopian capital would be in the hands of Roman legions.

A communiqué from Marshal Badoglio spoke only of the southern army's advance guard having made contact on the Harar front, but well-informed sources said it was Graziani's main column which was threatening the railroad city.

While the infantry moved through Ethiopia, the Italian navy went forward with its highly synchronized preparations against eventualities in the Mediterranean.

Naval officers said they expected all leaves of absence to be cancelled and an excellent authority said the government, always alert to military efficiency, was forming a corps of sailors corresponding roughly in or-

STUDENT KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Another University Of Texas
Youth Believed Fatally Injured

GEORGETOWN, Texas, April 18.—
(AP)—One University of Texas student was killed and another was perhaps fatally injured late this afternoon when the plane in which they were riding went into a spin and crashed in a field near here.

Guy Bryant, 20, died a few minutes after he was taken to Martin's hospital here. Jeff Farris, 21, was taken to the same hospital where doctors said his chances for recovery are slight.

The students had participated in an air carnival in connection with a Texas centennial celebration here and were en route to Austin when the airplane fell.

Witnesses said the plane took off without difficulty and seemed to gain altitude easily, but went into a spin suddenly at about 800 feet. The plane fell into a field one mile east of here. It was badly wrecked and the bodies of both students were crushed. The plane did not catch fire.

Bryant sustained a fractured skull and broken neck. Farris was caught under the plane's landing gear and sustained a crushed chest. Neither was conscious when taken from the plane.

Attendants at the hospital here communicated with officials at the University of Texas, but did not know the home address of either victim of the crash.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—
President Roosevelt today signed a bill authorizing the Reconstruction corporation to lend up to $50,000,000 for rehabilitation in flood and storm-stricken areas.

Under the bill individuals as well as organizations and municipalities and political subdivisions of states would be eligible for loans.

HORSE FREES COUPLE FROM PLOW

Selum's only a $65 truck horse, but to the Greens, of near Jena, La., he comes as the noblest of steeds. The reason? No longer will Farmer Paul J. Green and his wife have to yoke themselves to the plow, as shown above, to break the tough, weedy, root-studded ground on their cotton farm, as poverty has forced them to do for the last three years. An executive of the resettlement administration board heard of their plight and amazing struggle, and lent them money to buy Selum, with which the Greens and their daugh-

Executive Group Of Teachers' Association Meets At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(AP)— Resolutions recommending repeal of the so-called "teachers act" and enactment of a tenure law in its stead were adopted today by the executive council of the Louisiana Teachers association.

The council went on record as favoring replacement of the statute giving the state budget committee arbitrary authority to hire and dismiss teachers with an act preventing dismissal of teachers without cause and hearing after three years probationary service.

Another resolution recommended provision of additional funds for education.

The following delegates were named to the convention of the national educational association in Portland, Ore.,
the week of June 28:
Spencer Phillips, of Pelican, president of the association; L. W. Colvin, Jena; Robert Moncla, Thibodaux; J.
M. Poche, Destrehan; E. L. Talbot, Houma; J. O. Davis, Jena; Miss Violet O'Reilly, New Orleans.

Poche, Talbot, Davis and Miss
O'Reilly are former council members.
No action was taken regarding selection of an association convention city.

Members of the council are President Phillips, Moncla, Colvin, L. P.
Terrebonne, superintendent of ter-ville schools, and L. E. Frazier, Merryville.

PLAN TO FORTIFY BELGIUM REPORTED

PARIS, April 18.—(AP)—A plan to fortify Belgium against any German attack was reported by the newspaper Transatlantique today as the outcome of the conference of British, French and Belgian army general staff officers at London.

The newspaper said it "understands" that Britain asked Belgium to create a defensive line from Antwerp to Ghent, on Belgium's northern frontier, with construction of two forts and provision for flooding the line to block any invasion.

British air officers were understood to have insisted that in case of an alarm, they could immediately use Belgian aviation fields, either civil or military. The Transatlantique said new Belgian air fields would be prepared rapidly.

Belgium also would study the possibility of completing speedily a line of defense which would extend from France's maginot line of fortifications on the east, the newspaper said.

DILLINGER AIDE SHOT AT PRISON

Leslie Homer Badly Wounded
In Desperate Attempt To Escape

WAUPUN, Wis., April 18.—(AP)— Leslie Homer, one of the last of John Dillinger's gang of terrorists, was shot off the wall of the Wisconsin state prison today while leading four men in a desperate attempt to escape.

A companion, Alec Leikam, 19, serving 14 to 25 years for the killing of a policeman, was shot in the back and may die.

Homer, sentenced to 28 years for participation in the $50,000 robbery of the American Trades and Savings bank of Racine, Wis., in 1933, was wounded in the right leg, near the

The five convicts, employed in the prison twice shop with others of the more recalcitrant inmates, apparently had made careful plans for their futile dash.

Armed with lengths of gas pipe, knives and a hatchet, they overpowered a guard and seized a prison truck as the driver backed it to the twin shop door.

Homer threatened the driver with his hatchet and ordered a fellow convict, Albert Stephens, to take the driver's place. The latter threw the machine into gear and sped to an adjacent building where window washers were working. There the con-
their dash to the rear wall.

Whatever significance attaches to these figures was in dispute. C. Wayland Brooks, the Republican governmental nominee in Illinois, for example, said the Democratic contest over the gubernatorial nomination "attracted independent voters who will be with the Republicans in the fall."

But Chairman Farley of the Democratic national committee, linking the primary totals with Democratic registrations in California and Pittsburgh, read them as portents of a "victory sweep." He saw the president stronger than in 1932, or 1934.

His statement followed a swing of campaign activity in New York, where the state Democratic committee "commended" the president and reelected Farley its chairman for a fourth two-year term. He told audiences Former President Hoover and Landon had "adopted" the new deal farm relief plan, and dared the opposition to name what Roosevelt enactments it would repeal.

WILLIAM M'NAIR SPENDS HOUR IN PITTSBURGH JAIL

Mayor Goes To Cell On Fraud Charge Based On Ancient State Law

REFUSES TO OBEY ORDER TO REPAY FINE TO MAN

Arrest Is Most Exciting Escapade In History Of Official's Career

PITTSBURGH, April 17.—(AP)—The mayor of Pittsburgh, wise-cracking William M. McNair, spent more than an hour behind the bars of a jail cell today on a charge of embezzlement based on an ancient state law.

The arrest was the most exciting of the long series of escapades that have kept him in the public eye since his election in 1933.

He went to jail because he refused to obey an order by the county court to sign a warrant to repay a $100 fine collected by a magistrate from a man accused of writing "numbers" slips in a lottery.

A constable made the arrest at the executive offices in city hall, McNair, scorning a suggestion that he give bond, willingly went to jail where he laughed and joked with the prisoners, ate an apple and smoked a stogie.

Rep. Theodore L. Moritz, Democrat, Pennsylvania, formerly the mayor's secretary, obtained a petition for a writ of habeas corpus which the mayor signed. It was granted by Judge Thomas Marshall.

The judge released the mayor on his own recognizance. He set Monday for a hearing and warned McNair he would be liable to a fine of $300 if he failed to appear.

Attorneys said the law under which McNair was arrested, enacted in 1860, never before had been utilized under similar circumstances. It provides a five-year prison term and a fine for persons refusing to obey a court order to repay monies. The mayor also was charged with perjury.

Attorney Warren H. Van Kirk brought the charges in behalf of Sam Collinger, 34. He declared in an information the fine had been "wrongfully imposed" and that the city of Pittsburgh "unlawfully and con-temptuously" refused to comply with the court's order for the refund.

HUGHES ASSAULT REMAINS PUZZLE

Man Found Beaten Unconscious Is Unable To Remember Attack

Members of the sheriff's department and officers of the West Monroe police force were "in the dark" Saturday as to the identity of the person or persons who assaulted Jesse M.
Hughes, employe of the Union Oil Mill at West Monroe, who was found lying in an unconscious condition and stripped of his outer garments late Friday night.

Hughes was picked up in front of the Union Oil Mill about 11 o'clock Friday night with his face badly cut and with bruises about the shoulders and legs. He was rushed to the Vaughan-Wright-Bendall clinic in Monroe and regained consciousness about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

When questioned as to what happened to him, Hughes said he could not remember and did not know

Roosevelt And Opposition Forces Claim New Support

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Affirmations of encouragement, both within the new deal and among the leading contenders to oppose President Roosevelt in November, stood out tonight as consequences of the Illinois and Nebraska primaries.

Supporters of Col. Frank Knox of Illinois, Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho for the Republican presidential nomination claimed alike that their causes had been helped.

In the light of the conflicting comments and claims, the capital welcomed the week-end for an opportunity to survey the developments.
What did the fact show?
Latest tabulations gave Roosevelt over 450,000 more votes than cast for Knox and Borah together in the Illinois preference primary, over 27,000 more than counted for the Republican possibilities in Nebraska, and over 175,000 more than Borah got earlier in Wisconsin.

Wendel Abduction Suspect Arrested

Martin Schlossman Accused Of Torturing Man To Get Confession

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—Brooklyn police late today arrested Martin Schlossman on a charge of abducting
Paul H. Wendel, former New Jersey attorney, and torturing him into a "confession" of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

The arrest was made after Wendel identified Schlossman as one of the four men who held him captive in a Brooklyn house and forced him to sign the kidnapping "confession."

Police are seeking Murray Bleefeld and Harry Weiss, who, Wendel said, were the two men who abducted him from in front of a Manhattan hotel February 14 and transported him to Brooklyn.

After the arrest of Schlossman, a spokesman for District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan said:

"We expect to break this case wide open before many hours have passed, and there may be far-reaching ramifications."

Developments today included identification by Wendel of the house in which he was held and the questioning of three other persons besides Schlossman.

Wendel pointed out the house of Harry Bleefeld at 3041 Voorhies avenue after he had threaded through numerous streets with representatives of the district attorney, retracing the route he said he had followed in the company of the men who abducted him.

After an examination of the residence, he told the district attorney's aide he recognized a number of articles in the house.

The three questioned by police were Harry Bleefeld, Mrs. Schlossman, and Sidney Bleefeld. Harry Bleefeld is the father of Murray and Sidney Bleefeld and Mrs. Schlossman.

LOUIS M. HOWE DIES SUDDENLY

Political Advisor Of President Roosevelt Expires At Naval Hospital

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—
Louis McHenry Howe, long-time political advisor of President Roosevelt, died tonight at 11:10 o'clock.

Mr. Howe, who also was secretary to the president, died peacefully in his sleep at the naval hospital after having been ill for more than a year.

Death was caused by heart and chest complications.

President Roosevelt was informed of his old friend's death when he returned to the White House from the Gridiron dinner at the Willard hotel.

Mrs. Roosevelt immediately telephoned to Mrs. Howe, who is at the Howe home in Fall River, Mass.

Shortly after midnight the White House said that no funeral arrangements had been made.

The announcement of Howe's death was made by Speaker Cady, a secretary to the president at 12:10 a.m.

DEMOCRATS OKEH TAXATION PLANS

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Democrats of the board of ways and means tax sub-committee late today gave final approval to the new tax bill but still lacked complete estimates as to its prospective yield.

One final change was agreed upon—a reduction of the rate for a proposed "windfall" tax from 90 to 85 per cent.
Administration leaders prepared to spread early passage of the bill to facilitate plans for final adjournment of congress by Speaker Burns said Wednesday was being held open for general debate to start on the house floor. Arguments are expected to last the remainder of the week.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill of the sub-committee, wearily told newsmen as today's gathering broke up:

"We've finished it up. We expect it to go to the full committee Tuesday and we expect to be introduced Tuesday in the hope of its going to the floor of the house Wednesday."

TRUCE ENDS QUARREL OF TOWNSEND LEADERS

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(AP)—Two quarrelling leaders in the Townsend old age pension movement called a truce today on the premise that "Townsendism must march on."

Frank Arbuckle, western regional director, and George Higley, who recently led a "revolt" of members of Los Angeles club No. 83, largest in the nation, conferred yesterday. Arbuckle announced they had reached an amicable adjustment of all differences.

ALLEGED FINGER MAN IS CAUGHT AT MINNEAPOLIS

Third Suspect Arrested At Los Angeles; Alvin Karpis
Still Free

By William M. Pinkerton
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Alvin T. Karpis was written anew at the top of the justice department's list of wanted men tonight—this time with an announcement that the William A. Hamm kidnapping had been "solved at last."

The department set down this kidnaping, like that of Edward G. Brem-mer, another St. Paul man, as the work of the old Karpis-Barker gang.
It announced solution of the Hamm kidnaping after the arrest of three alleged conspirators.

Karpis, "public enemy number one"
and last "survivor of the inner circle" which hovered around old Kate "Ma" Barker, is still at large. With him is Harry Campbell, a pal or hanger-on.

Asked about the connection between the two kidnappings, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation, said:

"The same gang did both."
Hoover named eight men in the Hamm plot and said "there may be more arrests soon."

Hamm was seized by two men as he left the office of the Theodore Hamm Brewing company at noon on June 15, 1933. He was held in a hideout for four days until $100,000 ransom was paid.

Hoover's roster of the Hamm plotters:

Edmund C. Bartholmey, postmaster at Bensenville, Ill., arrested there Friday as owner of the house in which Hamm was kept captive. Bartholmey's home, identified by Hamm as his kidnap jail, is just a few blocks from the Harold Alderton home, pointed out as the place where Bremer was kept.

The postmaster, who was summarily removed from his position by postal officials after his arrest, pleaded innocence when arraigned at St. Paul today.

John P. Pfeiffer, commonly known as Jack Pfeiffer, twin city police character, arrested in Minneapolis Friday, where he was said to have served as "finger man" for the kidnapers.

Charles J. Fitzgerald, 60-year-old ex-convict and alleged former member of the old J. S. Morgan gang of desperadoes, arrested in a Los Angeles, Calif., garage Friday, accused of being the man who shook hands with Hamm before two other "poked guns in his ribs."

Elmer Farmer, serving a sentence in the Bremer case.

Bryon Bolton, also called William Bryon Bolton, now held in St. Paul in connection with the Bremer case.

Arthur "Doc" Barker, eldest of "Ma" Barker's boys, serving a life sentence at Alcatraz.

While Graziani's men fought what was reported to be the fourth day of a battle for Harar, an Italian column in the north continued to move along the road to Addis Ababa.

Fascists in the homeland prepared for a great celebration Tuesday, the traditional anniversary of the founding of Rome by Romulus and Remus. Tuesday, they said, would enhance the glories of the "Eternal City" for on that day, they predicted, the Ethiopian capital would be in the hands of Roman legions.

A communique from Marshal Badoglio spoke only of the southern army's advance guard having made contact on the Harar front, but well-informed sources said it was Graziani's main column which was threatening the railroad city.

While the infantry moved through Ethiopia, the Italian navy went forward with its highly synchronized preparations against eventualities in the Mediterranean.

Naval officers said they expected all leaves of absence to be cancelled and an excellent authority said the government, always alert to military efficiency, was forming a corps of sailors corresponding roughly in order.

OF CREASY'S fifteen "decisive battles of the world," each was important, and contributed to civilization. But compared to the final great "decisive battle," if it comes, those earlier battles would be as trifling fights among wolves. They include the battles of Marathon, Syracuse, Arbela, the Metastasis, the victory of Arminius, a Charles, "The Hammer," Hastings, Orleans, with Joan of Arc, Blenheim (which later made a duchess of an American Vanderbilt girl), Poltowa, Vainoy (a victory for the French revolution), Waterloo, where a methodical Englishman and a German fighter, Blucher, "conquered" Napoleon, whose genius had died on the way back from Russia.

These and all the others are as nothing compared to battles that are coming, with improved scientific killing.

STUDENT KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Another University Of Texas Youth Believed Fatally Injured

GEORGETOWN, Texas, April 18.—(AP)—One University of Texas student was killed and another was perhaps fatally injured late this afternoon when the plane in which they were riding went into a spin and crashed in a field near here.

Guy Bryant, 20, died a few minutes after he was taken to Martin's hospital here. Jeff Farris, 21, was taken to the same hospital where doctors said his chances for recovery are slight.

The students had participated in an air carnival in connection with a Texas centennial celebration here and were en route to Austin when the airplane fell.

Witnesses said the plane took off without difficulty and seemed to gain altitude easily, but went into a spin suddenly at about 800 feet. The plane fell into a field one mile east of here. It was badly wrecked and the bodies of both students were crushed. The plane did not catch fire.

Bryant sustained a fractured skull and broken neck. Farris was caught under the plane's landing gear and sustained a crushed chest. Neither was conscious when taken from the plane.

Attendants at the hospital here communicated with officials at the University of Texas, but did not know the home address of either victim of the crash.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BILL TO AID STRICKEN AREAS

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed a bill authorizing the Reconstruction corporation to lend up to $50,000,000 for rehabilitation in flood and storm-stricken areas.

Under the bill individuals as well as organizations and municipalities and political subdivisions of states would be eligible for loans.

HORSE FREES COUPLE FROM PLOW

Selum's only a $65 truck horse, but to the Greens, of near Jena, La., he comes as the noblest of steeds. The reason? No longer will Farmer Paul J. Green and his wife have to yoke themselves to the plow, as shown above, to break the tough, weedy, root-studded ground on their cotton farm, as poverty has forced them to do for the last three years. An executive of the resettlement administration board heard of their plight and amazing struggle, and lent them money to buy Selum, with which the Greens and their daughter, Ruth, 17, are shown below.

COUNCIL URGES REPEAL OF LAW

Executive Group Of Teachers' Association Meets At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(AP)—Resolutions recommending repeal of the so-called "teachers act" and enactment of a tenure law in its stead were adopted today by the executive council of the Louisiana Teachers' association.

The council went on record as favoring replacement of the statute giving the state budget committee arbitrary authority to hire and dismiss teachers with an act preventing dismissal of teachers without cause and hearing after three years probationary service.

Another resolution recommended provision of additional funds for education.

The following delegates were named to the convention of the national educational association in Portland, Ore., the week of June 28:

Spencer Phillips, of Pelican, president of the association; L. W. Colvin, Jena; Robert Moncla, Thibodaux; J. M. Poche, Destrehan; E. L. Talbot, Houma; J. O. Davis, Jena; Miss Violet O'Reilly, New Orleans.

Poche, Talbot, Davis and Miss O'Reilly are former council members.

No action was taken regarding selection of an association convention city.

Members of the council are President Phillips, Moncla, Colvin, L. P. Terbonne, superintendent of Iberville schools, and L. E. Frazier, Merryville.

PLAN TO FORTIFY BELGIUM REPORTED

PARIS, April 18.—(AP)—A plan to fortify Belgium against any German attack was reported by the newspaper Intransigent today as the outcome of the conference of British, French and Belgian army general staff officers at London.

The newspaper said it "understands" that Britain asked Belgium to create a defensive line from Antwerp to Ghent, on Belgium's northern frontier, with construction of two forts and provision for flooding the line to block any invasion.

British air officers were understood to have insisted that in case of an alarm, they could immediately use Belgian aviation fields, either civil or military. The Intransigent said new Belgian air fields would be prepared rapidly.

Belgium also would study the possibility of completing speedily a line of defense which would extend from France's maginot line of fortifications on the east, the newspaper said.

WILLIAM M'NAIR SPENDS HOUR IN PITTSBURGH JAIL

Mayor Goes To Cell On Fraud Charge Based On Ancient State Law

REFUSES TO OBEY ORDER TO REPAY FINE TO MAN

Arrest Is Most Exciting Escapade In History Of Official's Career

PITTSBURGH, April 17.—(AP)—The mayor of Pittsburgh, wise-cracking William M. McNair, spent more than an hour behind the bars of a jail cell today on a charge of embezzlement based on an ancient state law.

The arrest was the most exciting of the long series of escapades that have kept him in the public eye since his election in 1933.

He went to jail because he refused to obey an order by the county court to sign a warrant to repay a $100 fine collected by a magistrate from a man accused of writing "numbers" slips in a lottery.

A constable made the arrest at the executive offices in city hall. McNair, scolding a suggestion that he give bond, willingly went to jail where he laughed and joked with the prisoners, ate an apple and smoked a stogie.

Rep. Theodore L. Moritz, Democrat, Pennsylvania, formerly the mayor's secretary, obtained a petition for a writ of habeas corpus which the mayor signed. It was granted by Judge Thomas Marshall.

The judge released the mayor on his own recognizance. He set Monday for a hearing and warned McNair he would be liable to a fine of $300 if he failed to appear.

Attorneys said the law under which McNair was arrested, enacted in 1860, never before had been utilized under similar circumstances. It provides a five-year prison term and a fine for persons refusing to obey a court order to repay monies. The mayor also was charged with nonfeasance.

Attorney Warren H. Van Kirk brought the charges in behalf of Sam Collinger, 34. He declared in an information the fine had been "wrongfully imposed" and that the city of Pittsburgh "unlawfully and contemptuously" refused to comply with the court's order for the refund.

HUGHES ASSAULT REMAINS PUZZLE

Man Found Beaten Unconscious Is Unable To Remember Attack

Members of the sheriff's department and officers of the West Monroe police force were "in the dark" Saturday as to the identity of the person or persons who assaulted Jesse M. Hughes, employee of the Union Oil Mill at West Monroe, who was found lying in an unconscious condition and stripped of his outer garments late Friday night.

Hughes was picked up in front of the Union Oil Mill about 11 o'clock Friday night with his face badly cut and with bruises about the shoulders, arms and legs. He was rushed to the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic in Monroe and regained consciousness about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

When questioned as to what happened to him, Hughes said he could not remember and did not know whether his dash to the rear wall.

ROOSEVELT AND OPPOSITION FORCES CLAIM NEW SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Affirmations of encouragement, both within the new deal and among the leading contenders to oppose President Roosevelt in November, stood out tonight as consequences of the Illinois and Nebraska primaries.

Supporters of Col. Frank Knox of Illinois, Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho for the Republican presidential nomination claimed alike that their causes had been helped.

In the light of the conflicting comments and claims, the capital welcomed the week-end for an opportunity to survey the developments.

What did the fact show?

Latest tabulations gave Roosevelt over 450,000 more votes than cast for Knox and Borah together in the Illinois preference primary, over 27,000 more than counted for the Republican possibilities in Nebraska, and over 175,000 more than Borah got earlier in Wisconsin.

Whatever significance attaches to those figures was in dispute. C. Wayland Brooks, the Republican gubernatorial nominee in Illinois, for example said the Democratic contest over the gubernatorial nomination "attracted independent voters who will be with the Republicans in the fall."

But Chairman Farley of the Democratic national committee, linking the primary totals with Democratic registration majorities in California and Pittsburgh, read them as portents of a "victory sweep." He saw the president stronger than in 1932, or 1934.

His statement followed a swing of campaign activity in New York, where the state Democratic committee "commended" the president and reelected Farley its chairman for a fourth two-year term. He told audiences Formore President Hoover and Landon had "adopted" the new deal farm relief plan, and dared the opposition to name what Roosevelt enactments it would repeal.

Wendel Abduction Suspect Arrested

Martin Schlossman Accused Of Torturing Man To Get Confession

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—Brooklyn police late today arrested Martin Schlossman on a charge of abducting Paul H. Wendel, former New Jersey attorney, and torturing him into a "confession" of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

The arrest was made after Wendel identified Schlossman as one of the four men who held him captive in a Brooklyn house and forced him to sign the kidnaping "confession."

Police are seeking Murray Bleefeld and Harry Weiss, who, Wendel said, were the two men who abducted him from in front of a Manhattan hotel February 14 and transported him to Brooklyn.

After the arrest of Schlossman, a spokesman for District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan said:

"We expect to break this case wide open before many hours have passed, and there may be far-reaching ramifications."

Developments today included identification by Wendel of the house in which he was held and the questioning of three other persons besides Schlossman.

Wendel pointed out the house of Harry Bleefeld at 3041 Voorhes avenue after he had threatened through numerous streets with representatives of the district attorney, retracing the route he said he had followed in the company of the men who abducted him.

After an examination of the residence, he told the district attorney's aides he recognized a number of articles in the house.

The three questioned by police were Harry Bleefeld, Mrs. Schlossman and Sidney Bleefeld. Harry Bleefeld is the father of Murray and Sidney Bleefeld and Mrs. Schlossman.

LOUIS M. HOWE DIES SUDDENLY

Political Advisor Of President Roosevelt Expires At Naval Hospital

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Louis McHenry Howe, long-time political advisor of President Roosevelt, died tonight at 11:10 o'clock.

Mr. Howe, who also was secretary to the president, died peacefully in his sleep at the naval hospital after having been ill for more than a year.

Death was caused by heart and chest complications.

President Roosevelt was informed of his old friend's death when he returned to the White House from the Gridiron dinner at the Willard hotel.

Mrs. Roosevelt immediately telephoned to Mrs. Howe, who is at the Howe home in Fall River, Mass.

Shortly after midnight the White House said that no funeral arrangements had been made.

The announcement of Howe's death was made by Stephen Early, a secretary to the president at 12:10 a.m.

DEMOCRATS OKEH TAXATION PLANS

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Democrats of the house today means tax sub-committee late today gave final approval to the new tax bill but still lacked complete estimates as to its prospective yield.

One final change was agreed upon—a reduction of the rate for a proposed "windfall" tax from 90 to 85 per cent.

Administration leaders prepared to spread early passage of the bill to facilitate plans for final adjournment of congress. Speaker Byrns said Wednesday was being held open for general debate to start on the house floor. Arguments are expected to last the remainder of the week.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill of the sub-committee, warmly told newsmen as today's gathering broke up:

"We've finished it up. We expect it to go to the full committee Tuesday and we expect to be introduced Tuesday, in the hope of its going to the floor of the house Wednesday."

TRUCE ENDS QUARREL OF TOWNSEND LEADERS

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(AP)—Two quarrelling leaders in the Townsend old age pension movement called a truce today on the premise that "Townsendism must march on."

Frank Arbuckle, western regional director, and George Higley, who recently led a "revolt" of members of Los Angeles club No. 93, largest in the nation, conferred yesterday. Arbuckle announced they had reached "an amicable adjustment of all differences."

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN WILL START HERE ON MONDAY

The clean-up campaign to rid the Twin Cities of all trash, rubbish and disease and insect producing filth will get under way Monday morning.

Mayor Arnold Bernstein of Monroe and Mayor C. C. Bell of West Monroe have proclaimed the week from April 20 to 25 as "Clean-up Week," and the drive is being sponsored by the Ouachita parish health unit.

Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley council yesterday distributed 5,000 circulars in Monroe and 2,000 in West Monroe, which urge the residents of both cities to cooperate in the campaign.

SHERIFF TAKES POSITION OF ACTING POSTMASTER

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(AP)—Robert L. Pettit has resigned as sheriff of East Baton Rouge parish to become acting postmaster at Baton Rouge.

He was defeated for reelection at the January primary, running as an anti-administrationist. His resignation was submitted to and accepted by Governor James A. Noe.

No successor has been named. Newman H. DeBretton, who defeated him, takes office in May.

POSTMASTER ONE OF TRIO NABBED IN ILLINOIS RAID

Hoover Declares Same Gang Abducted Brewer And Edward G. Bremer

ALLEGED FINGER MAN IS CAUGHT AT MINNEAPOLIS

Third Suspect Arrested At Los Angeles; Alvin Karpis Still Free

By William M. Pinkerton
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Alvin T. Karpis was written anew at the top of the justice department's list of wanted men tonight—this time with an announcement that the William A. Hamm kidnaping had been "solved at last."

The department set down this kidnaping, like that of Edward G. Bremer, another St. Paul man, as the work of the old Karpis-Barker gang. It announced solution of the Hamm kidnaping after the arrest of three alleged conspirators.

Karpis, "public enemy number one" and last survivor of the inner circle which hovered around old Kate "Ma" Barker, is still at large. With him is Harry Campbell, a pal or hanger-on.

Asked about the connection between the two kidnapings, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation, said:

"The same gang did both."

Hoover named eight men in the Hamm plot and said "there may be more arrests soon."

Hamm was seized by two men as he left the office of the Theodore Hamm Brewing company at noon on June 15, 1933. He was held in a hide-out for four days until $100,000 ransom was paid.

Hoover's roster of the Hamm plotters:

Edmund C. Bartholme, postmaster at Bensenville, Ill., arrested there Friday as owner of the house in which Hamm was kept captive. Bartholme's home, identified by Hamm as his kidnaping jail, is just a few blocks from the Harold Alderton home, pointed out as the place where Bremer was kept. The postmaster, who was summarily removed from his position by postal officials after his arrest, pleaded innocence when arraigned at St. Paul today.

John P. Pfeiffer, commonly known as Jack Pfeiffer, twin city police character, arrested in Minneapolis Friday, where he was said to have served as "finger man" for the kidnapers.

Charles J. Fitzgerald, 60-year-old ex-convict and alleged former member of the old J. S. Morgan gang of desperadoes, arrested in Los Angeles, Calif., garage Friday, accused of being the man who shook hands with Hamm before two other, poked guns in his ribs.

Elmer Farmer, serving a sentence in the Bremer case.

Bryon Bolton, also called William Bryan Bolton, now held in St. Paul in connection with the Bremer case.

Arthur "Doc" Barker, eldest of "Ma" Barker's boys, serving a life sentence at Alcatraz.

NEGRO BOY SLAIN BY WHITE BANDIT

Aubrey Bruner, Store Owner, Routs Hold-Up Man With Gunfire

A 17-year-old negro delivery boy was killed by a white bandit in the grocery store operated by his employer, Aubrey Bruner, 51, in New-town, shortly before midnight last night when Bruner exchanged shots with the bandit in an attempt to frustrate a hold-up attempt.

The negro, Joe Lamb, was standing in front of a counter and Bruner was standing behind a showcase adjoining the counter when the bandit appeared in the doorway and shouted, "Everybody be quiet and put em up."

Bruner was almost entirely concealed behind the counter, while the negro youth presented an open target when the store operator and the bandit began firing it was reported.

Routed from the store, the bandit fled southward. Will Jackson, negro who resides across the street from the store, which is located at 208 South Eighth street, said that when he heard the shooting he immediately ran towards the store and saw the bandit fleeing with his body "stunned over" as though he was wounded.

Bruner said the bandit possibly was wounded in the shoulder.

The bandit was not masked.

Police Captain B. L. Brantley and Officers C. W. Dent and L. S. Meek were sent to the store in answer to a call to police headquarters.

Jesse Filhoil, 37, clerk in the store, and Bruner were the only witnesses of the shooting. Both men endeavored to pursue the robber, Bruner firing twice at him in the street and Filhoil carrying a double-barrel shotgun which he grabbed from the rear of the store, but which he was unable to use.

SOLONS BACKTRACK ON FLOOD MEASURE

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Backtracking earlier action, the senate commerce committee voted 10 to 5 today to reconsider its decision to have the government pay for all land and damage costs involved in the omnibus flood control bill.

The action left undecided the policy on handling the estimated $100,000,000 of land and damage costs involved in the bill, now swelling toward the half billion dollar mark.

The bill was boosted to about $370,000,000, including damage and land costs, when the committee tentatively listed three new projects for additional flood control works on the St. Francis river in Arkansas and Missouri, at an estimated cost of $16,000,000; the Yazoo river works in Mississippi at an estimated cost of $48,000,000; and the Big Black river in Mississippi at $850,000.

Example Better Than Precept

It is quite a common thing for a parent to say to a child, "Don't do as I do, but do as I say," and to think that with these few trite words he has relieved himself of all responsibility for any bad effect his bad example may have on his offspring.

It is the parent who practices what he preaches who most influences his child for good. Children are naturally imitative. When they see their parents doing certain things, they think it is all right for them to do the same things—no matter how many platitudes to the contrary are talked at them.

Children learn most of their meannesses from their elders—and particularly from their parents. They learn to lie and doublecross from their elders; and in the same way they learn to be irritable, quarrelsome, intolerant, inconsiderate and generally selfish.

Of course, nearly all children instinctively have certain undesirable traits, but it is the example of the grown folks that bring these things out in the children, and makes them feel it is proper to express such feelings and give way to them, instead of realizing that the big thing in life is to learn to master unworthy impulses, emotions and tendencies.

We are taught to honor our fathers and mothers. Some parents are not worthy of honor—they are their children's worst enemies. They lead their children into paths of waywardness—expecting an hour a week, if and when spent in Sunday school, to undo all the harmful influences the child is exposed to at home during all the rest of the week.

But, honorable or dishonorable, parents should be honored by their children—and that for the children's sakes, whether the parents deserve it or not, for it is good for the souls of the children to treat their parents with respect and consideration.

Children should be taught reverence. They are going to need it as they go through this life in preparation for another life. And the best place to teach reverence, as well as every other fine quality of character, is in the home—and very early.

And there is another reason why parents should teach their children to honor them. It tends to make the parents strive to be worthy of honor. Parents cannot sincerely set out sincerely and earnestly to make fine men and women of their children without striving to give these children living examples of the qualities that go to make fine men and women.

The quickest way to get the human group to behaving itself worthily is for the grown folks persistently and consistently to show the young folks just how worthy human beings behave.

SERVICE

As the reign of King Edward VIII of England settles down to the jog trot of day by day familiarity it becomes increasingly evident that he is a regular person. If one telephones to St. James's palace to propound an intelligent question, it is not impossible one will find himself talking to the king himself, who does not need intermediaries to transact business.

This was the experience of the owner of Reynoldstown, winner of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, who telephoned the palace to find out the right way to reply to a telegram of congratulation from the king and was told at once by royalty itself that he need not go to all that trouble, as his thanks were there and then accepted. So that little matter was settled to the king's taste. Major Noel Furlong then had a little talk with the king and the chances are he will always be a most loyal subject.

Humanness mixed with tact carries just as far with kings as with lesser persons. Especially does it have weight with telephoning, a skitterish proceeding when entered upon by the tactless. A minor employee of the palace might have high-batted the inquirer to the damage of everybody concerned. Instead, the king attended to the job with complete efficiency and made a friend for life. Respectfully referred to all answers of telephone calls.

Don't blame the newspapers for printing news of the antics of New Jersey's governor. When a man starts out to make an ass of himself, people want to know about it.

It must be significant of something or other that Americans contribute 45 per cent of the Irish sweepstakes pot for a lottery which is illegal in their own country.

There would be more pleasure in work if the hired man could fire the boss when things go wrong.

Roller towels and public drinking cups are banned, but a woman often is seen finishing her husband's cigaret.

JIM CROW

I know you've always been a thief.
I know you always will.
You eat seed, corn beyond belief
Up yonder on the hill,
You never sate your appetite,
You're always on the go.
And farmers cry
As you flit by,
"Here comes that pesky crow."

What use for me to scheme and plan?
You lick me from the start;
You swallow all the food you can
Then cheerfully depart.
But next year you will be around
To feed your face again;
You'll caw your need
Of still more feed
And what shall I do then?

But when I get my shotgun out
You'll flutter far and wide—
I mean, past any shade of doubt
To take you for a ride.
You easily thwart all my plans;
You're brighter far than I.
I can't conceal
Your daily meal,
My garden will supply.

Chance To Hunt Treasure

By BRUCE CATTON

If you like to curl up in a cozy chair and lose yourself for an evening hunting treasure in the South Seas (and who doesn't?), then you have a real treat in store for you in a new kind of treasure book, "They Found Gold."

I say "new" kind of treasure book because this fascinating series of yarns by A. Hyatt Verrill is based on fact. Verrill himself has hunted for more than one fabulous cache, buried on southern isles, under coral reefs, or in the steaming jungles of Central America. His book is a review of the world's famous treasure hunts, many of which are still being carried on.

He carries you to Cocos island, to the lost temple of the rich Mayas, to treasure hunts in deep waters where a whole armada of Spanish galleons lies buried. The salvaging of the Laurentie and the Columbia is described in two exceptionally interesting chapters in his book. The treasure story of the Inca Princess is equally thrilling.

And when you have finished, you can turn to the back of this book for a compilation of the unrecovered treasures in America, and a few pertinent directions for the would-be treasure hunter.

You'll find most of the world's lost loot still is to be recovered; but Mr. Verrill warns that treasure-hunting is a hard and usually a hopeless task.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON
THE FATHER OF BOXING—San Bernardino (1380-1444), the jovial and charitable Franciscan monk of Siena, Italy, is responsible for the modern revival of boxing. Europe was then torn between the two factions of the Guelphs and the Ghibellines, and blood was being shed in constant battles. Traveling from place to place, the saintly monk acted by great eloquence to calm the sanguine strife. He assembled around him a great many youths, who were fascinated by his word. He taught and prevailed upon them to substitute the fists for swords, and his virtuous and cheerful example brought about the revival of pugilism.

TUESDAY: THE 7-YEAR-OLD LAWYER
(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A professor views a vacuum: Dear Sir: Not long ago in a writing course, we were accorded the privilege of raking various writers over the hot coals. As is natural, I suppose, in literary circles, high and low, the name McIntyre was mentioned.

His works, if any, were viewed, his accomplishments summarized and then the class behaving as a well oiled unit, sat back and allowed the professor, a former newspaperman to draw first blood.

"O. O. McIntyre," he boomed across the expected silence. "McIntyre, the man who is the essence of gifted expression; the man who merely puts a pen to the paper to start a flow of words which tumble in a well ordered pattern across the trackless waste of an empty newspaper column!"

"The man who year after year goes on arranging tricky sentences, catch expressions and prim descriptions of eccentric personalities. This man," he boomed it up as us with vitriolic defiance, "what did he ever write?"

We were a bit dazed. Some of us rallied beautifully, building up a hasty defense. We argued valiantly. We showed with definite ingenuity that in your particular position with the grind of a daily column and magazine articles you could not be expected to turn out The Great American Novel. After all, your daily column reached, to an editorial once stated, 20,000,000 readers each time it appeared. A novel to reach 100,000 in two years must be a blinger.

We held our own, we thought through a hectic five minutes. But the professor was grinding his lions for a return blow. He solemnly plucked an edition of the Detroit Times from a student's desk. Calmly he turned to the back page where your column lay. Then with a triumphant snort he rattled off a few lines of the stuff you write on those days that you deal exclusively in the trivial.

Having finished the last gruesome line, he stiffened and with a Wallace Beery voice under full control thundered impressively: "Do you mean to intimate that I am writing? Am I to believe that a man who can make words lie down, sit up and roll over should actually receive money for degrading an art in such a manner?"

"Why doesn't he buy the space his column fills and leave it in blank?" I memorized to a writer who could write but who day after day, year after year, had nothing to say!"

How quickly personalities change in the movies. Save for visiting the news reels my attendance has been slight at full programmed pictures lately. So it was rather bewildering to hear some dyed-in-the-wool fans last night talk of stars I knew scarcely anything about—stars such as Henry Fonda, Fred MacMurray, Errol Flynn and Robert Taylor.

Your Baby's Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Long before there were physicians or midwives, no doubt, many women bore children successfully without the help of either. Frequently, however, these mothers suffered unnecessarily and sometimes they became ill or died as a result of complications which today are well controlled.

As human life became more complex, and as conditions of living changed, the medical complications of childbirth became more difficult. Crowding of human beings brought greater chance of infection.

There is a saying in medicine that a badly taught or ignorant midwife can kill more women than a highly educated doctor can cure.

If women made sure of their ability to bear children successfully and without complications by having a suitable physical examination beforehand; if they consulted competent medical advisers when they knew they were going to have children; and if they followed medical advice carefully through the entire period before childbirth, the number of deaths would be greatly diminished, and much unnecessary illness later would be prevented.

A midwife cannot, because of her limited education, be as competent as a well-trained doctor. The most important training that she can secure is that which gives her sufficient knowledge and judgment to know when to call for medical assistance.

A midwife may be able to recognize the presence of excessive bleeding, convulsions, swelling, and similar complications, but what many can recognize unfavorable physical conditions and wrong position of the child sufficiently early to enable the mother to get the kind of help necessary.

Whether a midwife, a general practitioner, or a specialist should have charge of the childbirth is wholly up to the mother. There are few places in the country where there is adequate control of the training or qualifications of midwives. The attention of a specialist in obstetrics in the best hospital is rather more expensive than that of a general practitioner.

Furthermore, there are hardly enough obstetric specialists in the United States today to take care of all women in childbirth. General practitioners, therefore, handle most of the childbirths which occur. In uncomplicated cases, most general practitioners can secure excellent results. There is always the possibility, however, that they will not be able to give as many hours of time to the individual case as can be given by specialists.

The work of the general practitioner takes him into all kinds of cases, and he may occasionally have to pass from an infatuated person to the woman in childbirth. All these considerations should be carefully weighed by the woman who is going to have a baby.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Many politicians have "pals" which provide some good reading in election years.

Both parties employ trained diggers to unearth the dirt.

For instance, there are some of Roosevelt's utterances as governor of New York which you might compare with some of his statements and actions as president.

Anti-New Dealers have dug up plenty of them, especially those concerning state rights and federal encroachment, government spending and credit. And no end of diggers, not forgetting Al Smith, have exhumed and dusted off that hoary old document, the Democratic platform of 1932.

It works both ways, of course, and you would have to go far to beat that trio of diggers for the Democratic national committee—Mr. Emil Hurja, Mr. Charlie Michelson and Mr. Eddie Roddan.

Voting records usually provide good pickings. Thus, when Chairman Farley was going to make a speech in New England and discuss the charge that F. D. R. had flagrantly violated the platform pledge to cut federal expenses by 25 per cent, his diggers gave him munitions in the fact that when congress smashed the economy act over the president's veto, six of the seven Republican senators of New England had voted to restore full veterans' benefits. Such celebrated G. O. P. representatives as Mrs. Rogers, Treadway and Martin of Massachusetts had joined them.

Dossiers are being compiled on the various presidential candidates. Democratic plotters say they have various quotations from Governor Landon of Kansas in which he endorsed large gobs of the New Deal. They claim they can embarrass him in eastern cities by dry speeches of his past, including such an alleged remark as "The blood of the W. C. T. U. flows in my veins"—although, of course, a lot of us boys could say that.

The best thing that can be said for all these exhumations of lines of living politicians is that they may dispel the recent barrage of quotations from Washington, Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln that has been hurled at us.

Another Al Smith "Walk"

One of the things you can find in the record if you like is an instance where Al Smith was threatening to take a spectacular "walk" many years ago.

It was at the Democratic state convention in Syracuse, N. Y., in 1920, when Boss Charles Murphy of Tammany was in full control. Smith had been okayed for the Democratic nomination.

Without Smith's knowledge, Murphy patched up a peace with William Randolph Hearst, who had been attacking him unmercifully for years, and promised to have Hearst nominated for the United States senate. But Hearst had made scathing attacks on Smith, too.

"No," shouted Al to Murphy. "I won't run on any ticket with him. If Hearst is on, I'm off; if I'm on, he's off."

Smith threatened to take the floor of the convention and denounce the Tammany ticket. Murphy capitulated and Hearst didn't go "on." Today Smith and Hearst are on the same side in a battle of opposition to Roosevelt and the New Deal.

An Enemy Of England!

And here's an item in Roosevelt's past life which seems to have escaped notice.

Congressman A. Platt Andrew of Massachusetts recalls how, during the Boer war, sentiment at Harvard university was strong for the Boers as against the British. He and another fellow started a fund to aid the Boers and they raised $15,000.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dutch by ancestry, was treasurer of the fund.

Tugwell Exposed

Thus far nothing has happened to anyone else as bad as happened to Rex Tugwell. The enemy once dug up some samples of his early poetry. But the enemy ought to prove that Tugwell wasn't a politician. No politician ever was caught like that.

FOUR ARRESTS MADE BY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT

The following persons were arrested Saturday by the sheriff's department: Arle Van Buren, negro, operating an automobile while drunk; Fannie Mae Robinson, assault and battery; Eva Wilson, negro woman, assault with a knife; Allen May, assault and battery. Floyd Tilly was arrested by the federal authorities at a local hotel and charged with the possession of nine gallons of untaxed whisky.

Example Better Than Precept

It is quite a common thing for a parent to say to a child, "Don't do as I do, but do as I say," and to think that with these few trite words he has relieved himself of all responsibility for any bad effect his bad example may have on his offspring.

It is the parent who practices what he preaches who most influences his child for good. Children are naturally imitative. When they see their parents doing certain things, they think it is all right for them to do the same things—no matter how many platitudes to the contrary are talked at them.

Children learn most of their meannesses from their elders—and particularly from their parents. They learn to lie and doublecross from their elders; and in the same way they learn to be irritable, quarrelsome, intolerant, inconsiderate and generally selfish.

Of course, nearly all children instinctively have certain undesirable traits, but it is the example of the grown folks that bring these things out in the children, and makes them feel it is proper to express such feelings and give way to them, instead of realizing that the big thing in life is to learn to master unworthy impulses, emotions and tendencies.

We are taught to honor our fathers and mothers. Some parents are not worthy of honor—they are their children's worst enemies. They lead their children into paths of waywardness—expecting an hour a week, if and when spent in Sunday school, to undo all the harmful influences the child is exposed to at home during all the rest of the week.

But, honorable or dishonorable, parents should be honored by their children—and that for the children's sakes, whether the parents deserve it or not, for it is good for the souls of the children to treat their parents with respect and consideration.

Children should be taught reverence. They are going to need it as they go through this life in preparation for another life. And the best place to teach reverence, as well as every other fine quality of character, is in the home—and very early.

And there is another reason why parents should teach their children to honor them. It tends to make the parents strive to be worthy of honor. Parents cannot sincerely set out sincerely and earnestly to make fine men and women of their children without striving to give these children living examples of the qualities that go to make fine men and women.

The quickest way to get the human group to behaving itself worthily is for the grown folks persistently and consistently to show the young folks just how worthy human beings behave.

SERVICE

As the reign of King Edward VIII of England settles down to the jog trot of day by day familiarity it becomes increasingly evident that he is a regular person. If one telephones to St. James's palace to propound an intelligent question, it is not impossible one will find himself talking to the king himself, who does not need intermediaries to transact business.

This was the experience of the owner of Reynoldstown, winner of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, who telephoned the palace to find out the right way to reply to a telegram of congratulation from the king and was told at once by royalty itself that he need not go to all that trouble, as his thanks were there and then accepted. So that little matter was settled to the king's taste. Major Noel Furlong then had a little talk with the king and the chances are he will always be a most loyal subject.

Humanness mixed with tact carries just as far with kings as with lesser persons. Especially does it have weight with telephoning, a skitterish proceeding when entered upon by the tactless. A minor employee of the palace might have high-hatted the inquirer to the damage of everybody concerned. Instead, the king attended to the job with complete efficiency and made a friend for life. Respectfully referred to all answers of telephone calls.

Don't blame the newspapers for printing news of the antics of New Jersey's governor. When a man starts out to make an ass of himself, people want to know about it.

It must be significant of something or other that Americans contribute 45 per cent of the Irish sweepstakes pot for a lottery which is illegal in their own country.

There would be more pleasure in work if the hired man could fire the boss when things go wrong.

Roller towels and public drinking cups are banned, but a woman often is seen finishing her husband's cigaret.

JIM CROW

I know you've always been a thief.
I know you always will.
You eat seed, corn beyond belief
Up yonder on the hill,
You never sate your appetite,
You're always on the go,
And farmers cry
As you flit by,
"Here comes that pesky crow."

What use for me to scheme and plan?
You lick me from the start;
You swallow all the food you can
Then cheerfully depart.
But next year you will be around
To feed your face again;
You'll caw your need
Of still more feed
And what shall I do then?

But when I get my shotgun out
You'll flutter far and wide—
I mean, past any shade of doubt
To take you for a ride,
You easily thwart all my plans;
You're brighter far than I.
I can't conceal
Your daily meal,
My garden will supply.

Chance To Hunt Treasure

By BRUCE CAITON

If you like to curl up in a cozy chair and lose yourself for an evening hunting treasure in the South Seas (and who doesn't?), then you have a real treat in store for you in a new kind of treasure book, "They Found Gold." I say "new" kind of treasure book because this fascinating series of yarns by A. Hyatt Verrill is based on fact. Verrill himself has hunted for more than one fabulous cache, buried on southern isles, under coral reefs, or in the steaming jungles of Central America. His book is a review of the world's famous treasure hunts, many of which are still being carried on.

He carries you to Cocos Island, to the lost temple of the rich Mayas, to treasure hunts in deep waters where a whole armada of Spanish galleons lies buried. The salvaging of the Laurentic and the Columbia is described in two exceptionally interesting chapters in his book. The treasure story of the Inca Princess is equally thrilling.

And when you have finished, you can turn to the back of this book for a compilation of the unrecovered treasures in America, and a few pertinent directions for the would-be treasure hunter.

You'll find most of the world's lost loot still is to be recovered; but Mr. Verrill warns that treasure-hunting is a hard and usually a hopeless task.

THE FATHER OF BOXING—San Bernardino (1580-1644), the jovial and charitable Franciscan monk of Siena, Italy, is responsible for the modern revival of boxing. Europe was then torn between the two factions of the Guelphs and the Ghibellines, and blood was being shed in constant battles. Traveling from place to place, the saintly monk acted by great eloquence to calm the sanguine strife. He assembled around him a great many youths, who were fascinated by his word. He taught and prevailed upon them to substitute the fists for swords, and his virtuous and cheerful example brought about the revival of pugilism.

TUESDAY, THE 1-YEAR-OLD LAWYER

A professor views a vacuum. Dear Sir: Not long ago in a writing course, we were accorded the privilege of raking various writers over the hot coals. As is natural, I suppose, in literary circles, high and low, the name McIntyre was mentioned.

His works, if any, were viewed, his accomplishments summarized and then the class behaving as a well oiled unit, sat back and allowed the professor, a former newspaperman to draw first blood.

"O. O. McIntyre," he boomed across the expected silence—"McIntyre, the man who is the essence of gifted expression; the man who merely puts a pen to the paper to start a flow of words which tumble in a well ordered pattern across the trackless waste of an empty newspaper column!"

"The man who year after year goes on arranging tricky sentences, catch expressions and pithy descriptions of eccentric personalities. This man—" and he hurried it as us with vitriolic defiance, "what did he ever write?"

We were a bit dazed. Some of us rallied beautifully, building up a hasty defense. We argued valiantly. We showed with definite ingenuity that in your particular position with the grind of a daily column and magazine articles you could not be expected to turn out The Great American Novel. After all, your daily column, reaching 20,000,000 readers each time it appeared, a novel to reach 100,000 in two years must be a blinger.

FREE PARISH CANNING PLANT WILL OPERATE

The Ouachita parish canning plant, operated for the past several years for the benefit of citizens of the parish, will open for the season of 1936 on May 1. This year the plant will be housed on Natchitoches street, near Eighth street, in a brick building formerly occupied by the Kennedy Brothers garage. Mrs. C. A. Kincaid will again be in charge.

At the last session of the police jury a committee was named with authorization to secure a proper site for the plant. The committee comprised J. E. Rutledge, S. O. Henry and J. L. Warren.

The free cannery was first started by the West Monroe Kiwanis club, but soon grew to such proportions that it was taken over by the police jury. Hundreds of thousands of cans of food have been preserved at the plant in the years that it has been operated.

Two out of every three cars have defective lights.

4 COMPLETIONS MADE PAST WEEK

Oil And Gas Report Issued By State Conservation Department

Four completions but no new locations are given in the weekly report of the conservation department, minerals division, issued Saturday. Three of the completions were small gassers and the other an abandonment.

The completions were as follows:

Morehouse Parish
Section 34-21-4 east, United Gas Public Service, Crossett No. 33, completed as making 5,112,000 cubic feet daily; rock pressure 780 pounds, total depth 2,145 feet.

Section 9-21-4 east, United Gas Public Service, Ten Delta No. 19, completed as making 6,840,000 cubic feet, rock pressure 860 pounds, total depth 2,148 feet.

Union Parish
Section 25-20-2 east, Interstate Natural Gas, Thomas No. 1, completed as making 6,080,000 cubic feet, rock pressure 735 pounds, total depth 2,161 feet.

Grant Parish
Section 9-9-1 east, T. A. W. Oil company, House-Long No. 1, dry and abandoned at 1,575 feet.

The following progress on drilling wells was also reported:

Rapides Parish
Section 53-1-2 east, Texas company, Well No. 2, set seven-inch at 5,714 feet, total depth 5,732 feet.

Section 53-1-2 east, Amerasia Petroleum Corp., Well No. 3, drilling at 3,550 feet.

Grant Parish
Section 18-9-1 east, Acadian Prod. company, Swope No. 1, drilling at 472 feet.

CONCERT GIVEN BY GLEE CLUBS

Northeast Center Singers Expected To Make Big Hit At Washington

The glee clubs of Northeast Center L. S. U., in their first public concert, given Friday night in the college auditorium, offered abundant evidence that the singers should prove a great musical hit when they appear before the Kiwanis International convention at Washington next June.

The program, given before a good-sized audience which roundly applauded the various numbers, embraced instrumental and vocal solos and quartettes, besides choral numbers by the men's and women's glee groups as well as the entire ensemble. In all the numbers the performers gave an excellent demonstration of adequate training by the director, Roger C. Frisbie. The organization is a well-balanced musical group and through its projected trip to the national capital, where the members will sing before a throng of 5,000 Kiwanians from all sections of the United States and Canada, it is expected to bring a great deal of national prominence to the intellectual and cultural advantages offered by Northeast Louisiana.

Aside from the choral numbers in Friday night's concert the outstanding features of the program were those given by Noel Brazzel, whose deep bass voice elicited enthusiastic exclamations from the audience, and saxophone work of Tommy Downs. Miss Lois Smith, in her character readings, also contributed much to the enjoyment of the occasion. Other soloists who deserve mention were Miss Charlotte Davis, soprano, and Billy Regan in his trumpet number.

Miss Florence Ziegler, whose accomplished artistry as a pianist places her in a class by herself, was obliged to give an unprogrammed number in response to the warm applause of the appreciative audience.

The program follows:

Men's Glee club—"Go, Lovely Flower," "The Hunting Song."

Trumpet Solo—"Stars in the Velvet Sky," Billy Regan.

Women's Glee club—"Underneath the Trees," "Stars Brightly Shining."

Bass Solo—"The Big Bass Viol," Elton Brazzel.

Reading—"Rest Cure," Lois Smith.

Male Quartette—"Let the Rest of the World Go By," M. D. Swayze, Garland Shell, Frank Mullen, Noel Brazzel.

Saxophone Solo—"Liebesfreud," Tommy Downs.

Soprano Solo—"Joy," Charlotte Davis.

Men's Glee club—"Volga Boatman," "The Lexington Ode."

Women's Glee club—"Amaryllis," "I Love Life."

Piano Solo—"Etude," Florence Ziegler.

Mixed Glee clubs—"Kiss Me Again," "The Green Cathedral," "The Bridal Chorus," "Alma Mater."

2 ROBBERIES AND THEFT REPORTED

Two robberies and the theft of a bicycle were reported to Monroe police Saturday morning.

The Market Produce company at 905 DeSiard street was entered and 22 chickens, two geese and two ducks were stolen. Entrance was effected by removing a partition in the rear wall.

W. C. Taylor, living at the Monroe hotel, reported that his room was entered sometime Friday night and a wallet containing $96 in cash stolen from his trousers pocket. He said he had left his room door open, and that Fred Hudson, living at 407 North

Fourth street, reported the loss of a bicycle stolen from his home. The wheel was described as being an Iver Johnson, size 28, painted red and bearing serial number 544815.

A rocket moves at its highest speed in a vacuum, and does not then depend on the backward pressure of its explosives against the air for forward motion.

FREE PARISH CANNING PLANT WILL OPERATE

The Ouachita parish canning plant, operated for the past several years for the benefit of citizens of the parish, will open for the season of 1936 on May 1. This year the plant will be housed on Natchitoches street, near Eighth street, in a brick building formerly occupied by the Kennedy Brothers garage. Mrs. C. A. Kincaid will again be in charge.

At the last session of the police jury a committee was named with authorization to secure a proper site for the plant. The committee comprised J. E. Rutledge, S. O. Henry and J. L. Warren.

The free cannery was first started by the West Monroe Kiwanis club, but soon grew to such proportions that it was taken over by the police jury. Hundreds of thousands of cans of food have been preserved at the plant in the years that it has been operated.

ganization and purpose to the United States Marines.

The Italian "soldiers of the sea" it was said, are being stationed at Spezia, on Italy's northwest coast, and at Maddalena, on the island of Sardinia.

Indications were that the government expected its armies to win the war in short order, thereby removing the Italo-Ethiopian situation definitely from the sphere of League of Nations' influence.

BELGIANS REPORTED TO HAVE RESIGNED

ADDIS ABABA, April 18.—(P)—The members of the Belgian military commission, employed for the last five years by Emperor Haile Selassie to train soldiers and police, were reported reliably today to have resigned again.

The relations between the Belgians and the government have been strained often in the past, and they tendered their resignations in a body at least once previously since the outbreak of the war.

DON'T GET WET

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY SOON PART

If you want to do it quick, buy a cheap roof, or sub-contract roofing from some general contractors not responsible financially and but cat's paws for lumber yards and wholesale groceries. I am out of pocket $2,182.00 in the past ten years working for general contractors who collected my money on roofs and have never paid me. In the future I will make but one bid, three copies, one to the owner of the house, one to the general contractor and one to the architect. I am tired and sick of donating to the dunes and dead beats in the building trade. It would be my glory, if permissible, to publish the names—Watch the columns of the Sunday Morning World as to fakes, facts and mis-carpages in the roofing game.

You buy eggs by the dozen, some good, some bad; you buy butter by the pound. All built-up roofing materials are sold by the pound—150 pounds of pitch is required to each 100 square feet of surface, many roofs have only 60 pounds and are short lived. The asphalt on the Ouachita National bank roof cost $40.00 a ton—a ten-year roof—and it has kept the money dry for thirteen years. Anchor asphalt used furnished by Barrett company. Arkansas and Louisiana asphalt cost $23.00 a ton retail. Cheaper, yes or no? All roofs where I have used these asphalt give trouble in seven years.

I am not an advocate of smooth surface roofs of any kind in a southern climate. The oils in the felt soon dry out in the hot sun. These roofs crack and split in extreme cold weather. The roofs have to be recoated often. You would not think of buying a pair of boots, wear them for ten years, day and night, never grease them, and expect them to be water-proof, would you? Coal tar pitch and gravel are the best roofs.

Many built-up roofs are ruined by heating the pitch or asphalt too hot, actually burning the roof, causing pitch or asphalt to crystallize.

Time tells everything. I am backing my 55 years' practical experience throughout these United States, even though I have been excess baggage without a railroad ticket—and have often wished I had studied to be a preacher because I could have swiped Bibles at the hotels and I like chicken.

Come around to my shop and let's talk about putting lids on buildings. You are more than welcome to spit tobacco juice around there. My roofing cards are on the table. Read them in the Sunday Morning World.

I want to say too that the Barrett company bond their roofs erected by me.

Yours,

J. G. BELL

the Belgians are known to have had disciplinary troubles in the past. It was understood that the government may not permit the Belgians to depart because of a dispute over the fulfillment of contracts, it is known that some of the instructors are depending upon the government for transportation.

As this fresh internal dispute developed, the government took steps for the protection of Americans and other foreigners still stationed here.

There still are 118 United States citizens in Ethiopia, and 58 of them live in Addis Ababa. Those in the capital have been offered the protection of the bombproof shelters of the British legation, since the United States legation is undefended.

Ethiopian officials assigned special guards to watch over the foreign legations and assured the various ministers that they need not fear for protection.

Cornelius Van H. Engert, United States minister-resident and consul general, remained at his legation with his wife and their two children, with only the American flag and a small detachment of native Ethiopian soldiers for protection.

where he had been attacked. He stated that during Friday afternoon he was in Monroe and went to a local pool room to rest. Then, he said, "everything went black" and he knew no more until he revived from his prolonged coma. He said he did not remember crossing the traffic bridge Friday night, a statement which led police officers to believe that Hughes might have been beaten in Monroe and then taken in an automobile across the river and thrown out of the car.

A member of the West Monroe police department reported that while he was cruising about the streets Friday night he was stopped by a man in an automobile who said he had found "a drunk man" on Natchitoches street and had taken him to the Union Oil mill. The driver then sped away, while the officer drove to the spot indicated. When he arrived there he found that a Monroe doctor had already been summoned and had driven Hughes to the clinic.

Hughes said he lost a new watch and chain. He was stripped of a suit which he described as also being new and of grey material. When he was picked up he was found to be dressed only in his shirt, underwear and socks.

Hughes was allowed to return to his home Saturday afternoon. He emphatically denied that he had been drunk and said that he could not drink alcoholic beverages because of illness.

Physicians at the clinic also declared that he had not been drinking. Both the West Monroe police and the sheriff's department are investigating the case.

"I'm afraid I've said too much already," he said.

Hoover's memorandum gave a detailed account of Hamm's kidnapping, the telephoned ransom demands, and the final payment by William W. Dunn, an official of the brewing company, who drove a partly-dismantled car, marked by a red lantern, out a St. Paul highway. When another car signalled by blinking its lights he dropped the ransom and continued toward Duluth.

The arrests brought to 63 the number of cases solved or helped toward a solution by Hoover's men and set them out again upon a new hunt for the three major kidnappers who still are at large. These are:

Alvin Karpis.

Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., the former law clerk wanted for the kidnapping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll at Louisville, Ky., on October 10, 1934. Robinson, who masquerades as a woman at times, has not been seen since he collected $50,000 ransom for the return of the Louisville society leader.

William Mahan, called "the remaining principal in the kidnapping of little George Weyerhaeuser, Tacoma, Wash., timber fortune heir, on May 24, 1935.

Like the John Dillinger gang, whose record was "closed" last summer with the finding in an Illinois gravel pit, of the remains of John Hamilton, one-time brains of the organization, the Karpis-Barker gang has withered under the fire of the federal agents.

HARPER TO TALK ON TRAFFIC LAWS

The American Legion traffic school of the air, conducted by Judge W. M. Harper through the cooperation of KMLB, will present the third of a series of broadcasts today at 12:45 p. m.

This time the judge will discuss the law as it deals with driving when intoxicated or when under the influence of drugs, and the penalties imposed. He will further discuss the most common form of reckless driving and new speed limit in Monroe. He will point out to listeners the three "E's"—enforcement, education and engineering.

As the life of someone's child may depend upon obedience to laws, Judge Harper is anxious to have the general public listen in on the talk today.

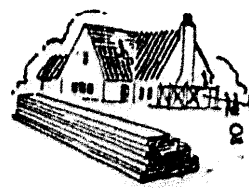

MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—you can't go wrong on this grand medicine for it has been helping people for 50 years to correct their aches and pains and to banish uric acid conditions, the aggravation of sciatica, neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago and rheumatism.

So if you have such symptoms of Kidney trouble as backache, nervousness, getting up two or three times during the night—scanty, burning, or smarting passage—leg cramps—moist palms or puffy eyes get a 35 cent package of this grand and harmless diuretic at any modern drugstore—it starts the first day on its errand of helpfulness.

But be sure it's GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original—the genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland.

Louisiana State University Group To Come Here For Bridge Event

The itinerary of the Louisiana State university band, from April 29 to May 2 inclusive, is announced by its director, Col. Castro Carazo. A program specially dedicated to Governor and Mrs. James A. Noe will be presented, as previously announced, at Neville high school, April 30, at 8:15 p. m. The committee in charge will comprise Mayor Arnold Bernstein, Percy Brown, H. A. Taylor and others.

Through arrangements effected by the News-Star-World, the band will remain over on May 1 and will play for the P. M. Atkins bridge dedication at 10:30 a. m. Lunch will be served at the close of the exercises.

Wednesday's program for the cadet band will include a concert at Bolton high school, Alexandria, at 3:30 p. m. and again at 8:15 p. m. On Thursday the band will have lunch at Winnfield and will play at the city of Winnfield. The concert will be at 1 p. m. The program at Winnfield will be dedicated to the memory of the late Senator Huey P. Long and the late Gov. O. K. Allen.

Arrival in Monroe by bus will be about 5 p. m. on Thursday. The cadets will be housed in Hotels Frances and Virginia.

After the bridge program is rendered on Friday, May 1, the band members will leave Monroe in time to arrive in Ruston for a 2:30 p. m. concert on the grounds of Ruston high school. The program will be in charge of L. J. Fox and members of the L. P. I. faculty. The program will be dedicated to President G. W. Bond and the L. P. I. student body, the faculty and student body of the Ruston high school. Immediately after the program is given, the band will hasten on to Shreveport to play at Byrd high school stadium at 7:30 p. m. The band will be housed at Barksdale field. The committee in charge in Shreveport will be Tom Tanner, Burch Lee and others and the program will be dedicated to L. S. U. alumni and the high school R. O. T. C. units.

On May 2, the band will leave Shreveport in time to have lunch at Natchitoches and to play at the Academic court at 1 p. m. F. G. Fournet, of the faculty, heads the committee in charge.

The program will be dedicated to President A. A. Fredericks, the faculty and student body of Louisiana State normal school. After this concert the band will proceed to Baton Rouge.

ROBT. HILL WON'T OPPOSE REMOVAL

Robert Hill, 37, who was arrested by Monroe police Friday after they received a telegram from Burlington, Vt., authorities asking that Hill be detained, Saturday waived extradition and agreed to return to Burlington to face charges of perjury and of jumping a $2,000 bond.

Hill was placed in the Ouachita parish jail yesterday and when questioned declared that the perjury charge arose out of a case in which he was the defendant at Burlington and during which he was tried on a charge of driving an automobile without a driver's license. Hill admitted that he was convicted and sentenced to serve 90 days in jail and to pay a $200 fine.

Shortly before he was due to be released from jail at Burlington, he said he was served with perjury charges perjury. He made bond and later learned that he was to be committed to an insane asylum, he said. He asserted he became panicky at the prospect and left Burlington on foot. He declared he hitch-hiked to Monroe.

Hill stated yesterday that he was a World war veteran and had at various times been confined in veterans' institutions for the mentally deficient. He declared he was gassed and shell-shocked during the war and was subject to epileptic fits. He denied he was a dangerous character and asserted that prior to his arrest here he had wired home for money in order to return to Burlington.

TITTERTON DEATH SOLUTION LOOMS

NEW YORK, April 18.—(P)—Indications mounted today that police believe they may be close to a solution of the mysterious slaying of Mrs. Nancy Evans Titterton.

Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, chief city toxicologist, rushed an examination of the wearing apparel of two persons, whose names were not disclosed.

While officials declined to comment, it was believed that Dr. Gettler was looking for stains comparable to those found on Mrs. Titterton's skirt, bathrobe and bedspread.

Detectives classified as "highly doubtful" a story told them yesterday by a woman florist that an unidentified man frequently bought flowers in her shop for Mrs. Titterton. Lewis H. Titterton, husband of the victim, told the officers a plant found in their apartment which the florist said had come from her shop, actually had been bought by himself at another place.

The Italian "soldiers of the sea" it was said, are being stationed at Spezia, on Italy's northwest coast, and at Maddalena, on the island of Sardinia.

Indications were that the government expected its armies to win the war in short order, thereby removing the Italo-Ethiopian situation definitely from the sphere of League of Nations' influence.

BELGIANS REPORTED TO HAVE RESIGNED

ADDIS ABABA, April 18.—(AP)—The members of the Belgian military commission, employed for the last five years by Emperor Haile Selassie to train soldiers and police, were reported reliably today to have resigned again.

The relations between the Belgians and the government have been strained often in the past, and they tendered their resignations in a body at least once previously since the outbreak of the war.

DON'T GET WET

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY SOON PART

If you want to do it quick, buy a cheap roof, or sub-contract roofing from some general contractors not responsible financially and but cat's paws for lumber yards and wholesale groceries. I am out of pocket $2,132.00 in the past ten years working for general contractors who collected my money on roofs and have never paid me. In the future I will make but one bid, three copies, one to the owner of the house, one to the general contractor and one to the architect. I am tired and sick of donating to the dopes and dead beats in the building trade. It would be my glory, if permissible, to publish the names—Watch the columns of the Sunday Morning World as to fakes, facts and mis-carriages in the roofing game.

You buy eggs by the dozen, some good, some bad; you buy butter by the pound. All built-up roofing materials are sold by the pound—150 pounds of pitch is required to each 100 square feet of surface, many roofs have only 60 pounds and are short lived. The asphalt on the Ouachita National bank roof cost $40.00 a ton—a ten-year roof—and it has kept the money dry for thirteen years. Anchor asphalt used furnished by Barrett company. Arkansas and Louisiana asphalt cost $22.00 a ton retail. Cheaper, yes or no? All roofs where I have used these asphalt give trouble in seven years.

I am not an advocate of smooth surface roofs of any kind in a southern climate. The oils in the felt soon dry out in the hot sun. These roofs crack and split in extreme cold weather. The roofs have to be recoated often. You would not think of buying a pair of boots, wear them for ten years, day and night, never grease them, and expect them to be water-proof, would you? Coal tar pitch and gravel are the best roofs.

Many built-up roofs are ruined by heating the pitch or asphalt too hot, actually burning the roof, causing pitch or asphalt to crystallize. Time tells everything. I am backing my 55 years' practical experience throughout these United States, even though I have been excess baggage without a railroad ticket—and have often wished I had studied to be a preacher because I could have swiped Bibles at the hotels and I like chicken. Come around to my shop and let's talk about putting lids on buildings. You are more than welcome to spit tobacco juice around there. My roofing cards are on the table. Read them in the Sunday Morning World.

I want to say too that the Barrett company bond their roofs erected by me.

the Belgians are known to have had disciplinary troubles in the past. It was understood that the government may not permit the Belgians to depart because of a dispute over the fulfillment of contracts, it is known that some of the instructors are depending upon the government for transportation.

As this fresh internal dispute developed, the government took steps for the protection of Americans and other foreigners still stationed here.

There still are 113 United States citizens in Ethiopia, and 58 of them live in Addis Ababa. Those in the capital have been offered the protection of the bombproof shelters of the British legation, since the United States legation is undefended.

Ethiopian officials assigned special guards to watch over the foreign legations and assured the various ministers that they need not fear for protection.

Corneilus Van H. Engert, United States minister-resident and consul general, remained at his legation with his wife and their two children, with only the American flag and a small detachment of native Ethiopian soldiers for protection.

where he had been attacked. He stated that during Friday afternoon he was in Monroe and went to a local pool room to rest. Then, he said, "everything went black" and he knew no more until he revived from his prolonged coma. He said he did not remember crossing the traffic bridge Friday night, a statement which led peace officers to believe that Hughes might have been beaten in Monroe and then taken in an automobile across the river and thrown out of the car.

A member of the West Monroe police department reported that while he was cruising about the streets Friday night he was stopped by a man in an automobile who said he had found "a drunk man" on Natchitoches street and had taken him to the Union Oil mill. The driver then sped away, while the officer drove to the spot indicated. When he arrived there he found that a Monroe doctor had already been summoned and had driven Hughes to the clinic.

Hughes said he lost a new watch and chain. He was stripped of a suit which he described as being new and of grey material. When he was picked up he was found to be dressed only in his shirt, underwear and socks.

Hughes was allowed to return to his home Saturday afternoon. He emphatically denied that he had been drunk and said that he could not drink alcoholic beverages because of illness.

Physicians at the clinic also declared that he had not been drinking. Both the West Monroe police and the sheriff's department are investigating the case.

Monroe Organization To Aid In Raising Funds For L. S. U. Unit

At a meeting of the local court of the Catholic Daughters of America at St. Matthew's parochial school Friday night, the members pledged themselves to raise funds towards the building of the Catholic center at L. S. U. in Baton Rouge.

A letter addressed by the Catholic hierarchy of Louisiana, including Most Rev. J. F. Rummel, archbishop of New Orleans, Most Reverend J. B. Jeanmard, bishop of Lafayette and Most Reverend D. F. Desmond, bishop of Alexandria, was read at the meeting, in which the bishops declared that a drive to raise $65,000 for the building of the Catholic center, would be initiated throughout the state.

The letter from the bishops pointed out that in pursuance to the call of His Holiness Pope Pius XI, the establishment of a Catholic center at Baton Rouge would be in accord with Catholic action which the Holy Father defined as "the participation of the laity in the work of the hierarchy."

The bishops in their letter called upon the Catholic Daughters of America and the Knights of Columbus to sponsor the drive for funds, and the Monroe organizations agreed to fix a quota which they pledged themselves to raise for the purpose. A committee was appointed to make plans for the subscription campaign.

Rev. Fr. N. F. Vandegraer, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church and Rev. Monsignor J. V. Plaque, chaplain of St. Francis sanitarium, attended the meeting and urged that the organizations give their support to the project.

MONROE YOUTHS AT CULVER

W. JOHN SHERROUSE, JR. HENRY A. BIEDENBARN, JR.

Henry A. Biedenbarn, Jr., and W. John Sherrouse, Jr., of Monroe, who are cadets in Culver Military Academy. The cadet regiment is composed of cavalry, artillery and infantry. Both Monroe boys are in the artillery. Sherrouse holds the rank of cadet corporal in the battery. He was a member of the varsity football squad last fall. Biedenbarn is the son of Henry Biedenbarn of the Ouachita Bottling company and Sherrouse is the son of W. J. Sherrouse, prominent in the motor service industry.

there was little likelihood that he would call again.

Besides, she could always find an excuse for not seeing him.

With this decision made, Toby slipped back into the old routine. She was at home one morning, inspecting a pair of soiled white sandals and trying to decide whether or not they were worth darning when the bell from the entrance downstairs rang sharply.

It must be the postman with a letter from Harriet. One letter had arrived several days ago—a letter that described "Aunt Abigail" Dinwiddie, Aunt Abigail's cooking, her comfortable, old-fashioned home and the little town of Plainsville, all with equal enthusiasm.

Toby, anxious for more news, hurried down the stairs. She opened the door of the tiny vestibule—and faced Tim Jamieson.

"Hello, Gorgeous," he said, grinning. "I've given up trying to reach you by phone. Decided to come myself. Run upstairs and get your bonnet. You and I are going on a picnic."

If he had said anything else except a picnic, Toby might not have weakened. But a picnic—blue sky overhead, green fields, trees reaching out generously, shady branches, perhaps a stream and the sound of rushing water! How had he known that a picnic would be irresistible?

"I'd love it," Toby said, raising shining eyes.

"The car's waiting and the lunch is packed. Hurry up and get that bonnet on."

Already Toby was on her way upstairs. She called over her shoulder, "I'll hurry!"

She put on a dress of yellow linen and tied back her hair with a yellow scarf. She slipped on low, flat-heeled shoes, caught up a sweater, and was back.

The roadster at the curb was new. "Like it?" Tim asked, grinning.

"It's grand!"

She climbed inside and Tim took the wheel. Across the bridge to Long Island. Along hot streets, past tired-looking buildings, with the air gradually growing fresher, less stifling. On and on until presently the ribbon of pavement was bordered on either side with green. On until there was the blue water of the Sound and waves beating against the shore and a breeze that was certainly cool!

Still Tim drove on until, rounding a curve, they were on a stretch of road that was a picture of beauty. They left the car, got out the hamper and carried it to a shady spot. Tim unpacked the lunch—cold chicken, salad, a thermos of ice coffee, a magnificent chocolate cake and fruit.

After lunch they lingered lazily for a while, then set off to "explore."

When they were tired of this they came back to the picnic spot. Toby settled herself comfortably, leaning back against a tree and staring off across the blue water. Tim stretched out, full-length, pillowing his head on his arms.

Suddenly he sat up boldly. "I know," he said almost roughly, "why you're never at home any more when I call. It's Jay Hillier! There's something I've got to know. Gorgeous! Just how much does Hillier mean to you?"

MILITARY BALL BEING PLANNED

Charity Affair At Baton Rouge Will Be Attended By Governor

BATON ROUGE, La., April 18.—(Special)—A brilliant military ball in which Gov. James A. Noe and his staff will participate is planned by the Augustin Ewing post, Veterans of Foreign Wars in Baton Rouge, on the night of April 25. The degree team of the John D. H. post, V. F. W., will also participate at the Louisiana State university gymnasium. Representatives of all branches of the army and navy marine corps and other branches of the service will be represented. Proceeds of the event will go to the fund for the financial assistance of the Catholic and Protestant orphanages in Baton Rouge.

To emphasize the military aspect, there will be a review of the cadet corps of the university on the campus at noon on the same day. The governor and his staff and other distinguished guests will occupy places on the reviewing stand.

Costumes at the ball will emphasize those worn in the days of long ago. Plans contemplate the sending of a dozen planes from Barksdale field on a practice cruise. During the noon review they will fly over the city. State employees will participate and large delegations are expected to attend from cities and towns throughout the state.

Incidentally, those who come will be asked to view the magnificent architectural specimen, the old state capitol, which it is hoped to repair and preserve for all time. This building, of gothic type, is built along lines of the middle ages and has stood for nearly a century, its history dating back to ante-bellum days.

Mexico, the United States, and Canada, in the order named, lead the world in production of silver.

CHAPTER XXXII

Afterward Toby thought she managed very well. If she hesitated for an instant, if her voice was not quite as level as it should have been, there was no sign of disconcertion in her face as she said, "Why, hello, Tim—what a surprise to see you!"

"It's a surprise to see you, too," he told her. "I thought you must be out of town. You seem to have stopped answering telephone calls; at least you don't answer when I call."

He would say that, of course. Toby didn't believe that Tim had telephoned. Probably he didn't expect her to believe it. But, being Tim, he would say it, nevertheless.

"I'm sorry," she told him regretfully—politely regretfully as one is, speaking to an acquaintance rather than to a friend. "If you called and no one answered, I must have been out somewhere. Harriet's away, so there's no one to take messages."

"Where's Harriet?"

"Up in the country. She'd been working too hard and needed a rest. The traffic light flashed red then, and they crossed the street. "Where're you bound for, Gorgeous?" Tim asked. She changed her plans abruptly. She didn't want to say that she was going to a movie to escape the heat. So, instead, she said, "Fifty-seventh street. It's the day for the beauty shop."

"Beauty shop! That's the last place I'd say you'd need to go."

Once the compliment would have thrilled her. Now Toby knew how easily Tim said such things—and how little they meant.

"Oh, there's always the upkeep," she told him lightly.

Tim turned to her appraisingly. "I don't think you need to worry about the original job or the upkeep, either. As it happens, I'm headed in the same direction myself. Mind if I walk along with you?"

"Of course not."

They went on in silence for several moments. Suddenly Tim said, "Oh, by the way, Gorgeous, I've noticed you've taken to decorating the news stands. Decorating them very nicely, too. That picture of you on the cover of — (he named a widely circulated magazine) — last week was a knockout."

"Thanks. That was one of Duryea's pictures. I liked it myself."

"It was a beauty!" Tim said enthusiastically. "And you can take that more than one way."

"Oh, yes, flattery came easily to him. Why hadn't she understood long before that words spoken so easily must be as lightly meant?"

He talked on—of the weather, the wilted appearance of the city, the boat races the Saturday before, a new car that passed them—until Toby halted before a doorway. "This is the place," she said. "This is where I leave you. It's nice to have seen you, Tim."

She had one hand on the door, would have entered, but he stopped her. "Wait a minute," he said. "How about hunting up a cool roof this evening, doing a bit of dancing, maybe? Don't you think it's time we did something like that? I do."

She shook her head, smiling. "Sorry, Tim, but I couldn't. I'm going to be busy tonight."

"Then how about tomorrow?"

"But I can't, Tim. Really. I've got a date for tomorrow."

"Can't you break it?"

"Not very well."

"You mean you don't want to. Is that the idea?"

"No, that's not it—"

Why was she denying it, since it was true? She didn't have a date for tonight or the next night either. She was saying she had because she had made up her mind she would not let Tim Jamieson coax her into agreeing to see him again.

"Well, maybe you'll change your mind," Tim suggested. "Girls have been known to do that. Anyhow, I'm going to give you a call tomorrow."

"All right. You can do that. Good-by, Tim."

"Bye, Gorgeous. Remember, you'll be hearing from me."

Toby went into the building and stepped into an elevator. Since she was here, she decided, she might as well go up and let Charles do her hair. On such a hot afternoon there would be no difficulty about an appointment. And she really hadn't wanted to see that movie, anyhow.

Sitting down with the waves carefully pressed into her hair, waiting for them to dry, Toby made up her mind about one thing. She would not stay home, waiting for Tim Jamieson to telephone. She had done that once; she would never do it again. Tim's part in her life had come to a finish and it was going to stay that way. Probably he wouldn't call, whether he did or not, she would not be home. For two days she invented excuses to keep her away from the apartment. She went on shopping trips. She had a call from the Models' league and spent several hours—the hottest part of a terrifically hot day—bundled up to one fur coat after another, posing before a camera. The coats would not appear in shops until August, but they had to be photographed in June.

She lingered in the league office, lunched with a girl she did not particularly like. Bill Brandt took her to a play he wouldn't call, whether he did or not, she would not be home. Finally, Toby's sense of humor came to her rescue. It was ridiculous to stay away from home because of Tim, and suddenly she saw that. Probably he hadn't called, or, if he had, and had received no answer,

Her Work A Real Pleasure Feeling As She Does Today

in a statement reaching the Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"Practically all my life constipation had caused me continual suffering," continued Mrs. McBride. "Each day more complications developed. My system was filled with poisons and soon my stomach and kidneys were badly affected. Attacks of indigestion were sure to come after every meal I ate, gas formed in abundance until my heart would palpitate and I became dreadfully nervous. I suffered with awful headaches, my kidneys gave me trouble all the time and my back ached continually. I lacked the strength and energy to get about and my work was such a drudgery in my condition. None of the many medicines I tried were able to help me and I was terribly discouraged until I was finally persuaded to give this new Gly-Cas a trial—I had heard so much praise for it on every side as being a medicine that was DIFFERENT."

"Gly-Cas wasted no time in getting to the very source of my health troubles," continued Mrs. McBride. "Those dreadful poisons were removed from my system in a most natural way, bowels and stomach were regulated and my kidneys are no longer troubling me. It is wonderful to feel so well again and my work is a REAL PLEASURE feeling as I do today. My former strength and energy has been restored, indigestion and bloating are in the past and I can eat and enjoy my meals without any distress afterwards. THEN, TOO, that dreadful NEURITIS with those sharp stabbing pains which had caused me no end of suffering have now been entirely eliminated. I am able to do my work with less effort than in years and feel so fine I cannot help but tell others about this new Gly-Cas—it gives results—even when all else tried had failed."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St., Monroe, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns.

PLAY BALL

The Ouachita Valley baseball league opens its 1936 schedule today, and that will interest fans throughout this immediate section. It should prove particularly interesting to Monroe fans.

We make that observation, not because we consider the Monroe club more important than the other teams in the circuit, but because Monroe is again a member of a baseball league.

Monroe has been weighed and found wanting in the baseball scales in the past few years and we sincerely hope that history doesn't repeat itself this season.

E. C. Hunt, manager of the local club, and the American Legion, which is backing the project, have worked hard to produce a team for Monroe. Manager Hunt has shouldered most of the burden and he deserves the wholehearted support of the club's fans. There's nothing in it for him except the fun of building the team.

The local entry will be composed largely of young Monroe boys who will be out there trying, win or lose. According to Manager Hunt, there are several likely prospects on the squad. He says he'll have a winning team, and we hope so. The Ouachita Valley plays a pretty fair brand of semi-pro baseball, and it will take a good club to stay up there.

But winning or losing isn't the topic of discussion at the present moment. Today's the opening day. A big crowd will show that Monroe wants baseball. And a big crowd will give those boys an incentive to win. Let's go out there and give the Druggists a big send-off!

PITCHING

The Detroit Tigers will reach down and snatch off a Monroe boy if he continues to pitch as he did Thursday. George Gill, picked to hurl Beaumont's home opener, allowed San Antonio one scratch hit, narrowly missing a perfect game. He didn't walk a man, Gill, built along the lines of Schoolboy Rowe, should be ready for major league duty next spring if he picks up a little weight.

CHAMPION

Willard Dean, Centenary slugger, won the National A. A. U. heavy-weight championship Friday night and he won it against overwhelming odds. Dean's foes averaged more than 200 pounds and he beat one boy who tipped the beam at 215. Willard weighed in at 179. Possibly Dean's A. A. U. victory will silence some of his critics who announced he wasn't all his coach claimed for him.

TRYOUTS

In reply to numerous inquiries, we're giving you the dates and place for the south's Olympic track and field tryouts. They'll be held at Loyola stadium in New Orleans on May 22-23. Original plans listed Baton Rouge as the site but that has been changed.

HITTING

In three games during the Ruston rally, W. B. Stewart, third baseman for the champion Ouachita parish high school Lions, was at bat nine times and got six hits, including a home run, two triples, two doubles and a single. That's the poling that old apple. Incidentally, the Lions hit .513 as a team.

HABIT

Winning has become a habit with Detroiters. Last week the Red Wings topped the Stanley Cup trophy. Bud biematic of the world's hockey champlionship. The Detroit Tigers are two-time American league champs, and currently rule the roost as 1935 World Series victors. The Detroit Lions copied the national football title. Joe Louis, according to reports a fairly promising boxer, is a resident of Detroit. And Gar Wood, speedboat king, hangs his hat in the Motor City. Tie that.

EDUCATION

One of the greatest basketball players ever to perform in college circles, Paul Birch, ex-Duquesne university ace, has played one year with the New York Celtics' professional team, and here is what he has to say about the money game: "After one season with the Celtics, I find I have learned more basketball playing one winter with them than I did during all my high school and college careers. No amateur team stands a chance with a topnotch pro outfit."

CRACKS OF THE WEEK

George Earnshaw, after the Dodgers had absorbed a beating by the Giants in the opening game of the season last Tuesday, "Well, we're only one game out of first place."

Wilmer Allison, after the U. S. Davis cup hopefuls had trimmed Mexico: "If we can beat Australia, we stand a good chance of regaining the Davis cup." Yeah, Wilmer, I.P.

Mike Jacobs, after being told that San Diego would pay him a million for the Louis-Schmeling fight: "Sounds great. All we need now is the million."

Tom Yawkey, after Joe Cronin got his high priced thumb in the way of a throw from third: "One broken thumb isn't going to beat us in this pennant race." But how about the Tigers and Indians, Mr. Yawkey?

Fourteen of the 16 major league managers in a nation-wide broadcast last Monday: "We'll finish in the first division. Yessir, we'll be right in there." That makes a one-club second division for each league.

Casey Stengel, in a parting shot at Umpire Beans Reardon Wednesday: "You would be a fine asset to baseball if you had stayed in the movies."

Frankie Frisch, after offering $4,000 for Joe Stripp: "I believe he'll be worth all of that."

Max Baer, in his weekly popoff: "All I want is a couple of warmup bouts and I'll be ready for Joe Louis again."

The students selected New Orleans for their meeting place for the spring session of 1937 with Tulane university as host.

Downing And Davis Low; Matches For Club Title Start Today

First round matches will start today, with one week allowed for playing of each round, according to Winnie Cole, Muny club pro.

Pairings for championship matches were announced as follows: Ben Downing, Jr., vs. Bobby Oliver; A. B. Sherrard vs. Billy Downing; Jimmy Barker vs. J. B. King; Grady Nelson vs. F. Jackson; Jim Davis vs. K. L. Weldon; Wesley Shatto vs. Aaron Parker; Dr. T. A. Brulte vs. H. T. Taylor; Dr. R. T. Harberson vs. Tip Schier.

H. S. Parker and Joe Goynne narrowly missed qualifying for the championship play.

The annual spring handicap tournament at the Municipal club will close this week. Ray Buce defeated Vance Rhodes, 2 and 1, in one semi-final match and will meet the winner of the Brulte-Downing match for the championship. Brulte and Downing will play their semi-final match Monday.

Dr. Harberson was medalist in the handicap tournament.

Ruston Wins Annual Track Meet; Bastrop Girls Shade Lisbon

RUSTON, La., April 18.—(Special)—Track and field events Saturday afternoon and the finals in baseball Saturday morning concluded the thirty-ninth Louisiana high school rally which attracted more than 800 pupils to the campus of Louisiana Tech this week-end.

The baseball team of Ouachita parish high school of Monroe, defeating Dubach 6-2, in the final contest Saturday morning, won the diamond championship of the rally.

Ruston, with 60 1-2 points, captured the class A cup in the track and field events for the boys. Homer, with 44 points, was second. Summerfield copped the trophy in the class B track events, amassing 55 1-2 points. Methvin finished second in the B division.

In the girls' track and field events, in which there was no separation of schools into groups, Bastrop nosed out Lisbon by the close margin of 19 to 18 1-2 points. In cases of ties, points were split.

No new records were set at the track meet for the boys, and this was the first time the cinder events have been conducted here for girls.

Sherrard of Monroe opened the scoring in the second with a homer to right field. Hinton of O. P. H. S. tallied also in that frame. Ouachita runs were made as follows: Takewell and Pate, in the third; Stewart, in the fifth, and Blazer, in the seventh.

Dubach's runs were made by Hunt in the second, and by E. Colvin in the third. Leo Hartman is coach of the Ouachita parish high school champion nine, and Joe Buck Mount tutors the Dubach team.

Major Loop Hurlers Set 20 Wins As Goal

However, Few of Forty Who Aspire To Achievement Will Make It

By Paul Mickelson (Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 18.—Down the sports trail:

Big twenty. No less than 40 major league pitchers have publicly or privately set 20 or more victories as their goal this year, but you can mark it down as one of the toughest assignments in all sport. Out of approximately 150 hurlers in the majors today, there are only 26 who have achieved that distinction, over a combined total of 21 seasons.

Robert Moses, Grove, old Uncle Moses of the gold-plated Boston Red Sox, leads them all with eight seasons above the charmed mark that every pitcher strives to reach. He also is a member of the "30 club," his only compatriot being the great Dizzy Dean. And Uncle Moses is off strong on his drive to make it nine years above the 20 mark.

Wesley Ferrell, teammate of old Uncle Moses, ranks second in the "20 club," having won 20 or more games times. Alvin Crowder, Dizzy Dean, George Earnshaw, Lefty Gomez, Jess Haines, Carl Hubbell, Ted Lyons and Lonnie Warneke have turned the trick three times each, while Tommy Bridges, Mel Harder, Waite Hoyt and Fat Malone succeeded twice. The one season above 20 men are Guy Bush, Watson Clark, Paul Derringer, Fred Fitzsimmons, Bill Lee, Schoolboy Rowe, Hal Schumacher, Walter Stewart, Rube Walberg, Monte Weaver, Earl Whitehill and Ben Cappel.

Among the pitching greats who haven't done it are Paul Dean, Elden Auker, Willis Hudlin, Red Lucas, Bill Walker, Van Lingle Mungo and Firpo Marberry.

Paper skin. The Yankees aren't worried, any more about their star rookie outfielder, Joe DiMaggio. They are alarmed. The report is out that Joe, rated as one of the prize prospects of the baseball age, is the victim of a "paper skin," a skin that rips at the slightest injury. His injured left foot was further injured at Washington Thursday when it was struck by a foul ball during practice. When asked when he thought Joe would get into the lineup, Manager Joe McCarthy frowned, walked around for several minutes with a worried look, and said: "I'll be darned if I know. He doesn't look so good." New York scribes will give you odds that the "Di-Mag" doesn't play in 50 games, which will be too bad for the Yankees.

Come back. Major league club owners, who always are open to the proposition of firing and hiring managers, are keeping their eyes on two former greats who are wowing the minors as pilots. They are Lefty O'Doul of San Francisco and Burleigh Grimes, now manager of the Louisville Colonels of the American association. Both had great seasons last year. Scouts say they rate as two of the very finest teachers in baseball.

SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 18.—(AP)—A four-hit barrage in the ninth inning gave the Memphis Chickens a 10-8 victory over the Birmingham Barons here today in a free-hitting contest.

Asbell started the winning rally with a single, and scored on Long's hit, after he had been sacrificed to second. Long stole second and scored on Grace's single.

Brown Plays At Hodge, Winnfield At Sterling; Ruston Idle

The opening guns of the Ouachita Valley baseball league's 1936 campaign will boom into action today with games here at the Casino park, at Sterling and at Hodge. Appropriate opening day ceremonies have been planned for each game, President T. O. Dent has announced, and good-sized crowds are expected to witness the beginning of the season in this area.

All games are scheduled to start promptly at 3 p. m., with the newly organized Monroe Druggists meeting the Swartz Carbon Blackers here, the last year's championship Sterling Engineers clashing with the Winnfield club at Sterling, and the Brown Paper mill nine of West Monroe en-

We make that observation, not because we consider the Monroe club more important than the other six teams in the circuit, but because Monroe is again a member of a baseball league.

Monroe has been weighed and found wanting in the baseball scales in the past few years and we sincerely hope that history doesn't repeat itself this season.

E. C. Hunt, manager of the local club, and the American Legion, which is backing the project, have worked hard to produce a team for Monroe. Manager Hunt has shouldered most of the burden and he deserves the whole-hearted support of the city's fans. There's nothing in it for him except the fun of building the team.

The local entry will be composed largely of young Monroe boys who will be out there trying to win or lose. According to Manager Hunt, there are several likely prospects on the squad. He says he'll have a winning team, and we hope so. The Ouachita Valley plays a pretty fast brand of semi-pro baseball, and it will take a good club to stay up there.

But winning or losing isn't the topic of discussion at the present moment. Today's the opening day. A big crowd will show that Monroe wants baseball. And a big crowd will give those boys an incentive to win. Let's go out there and give the Druggists a big send-off.

PITCHING

The Detroit Tigers will reach down and snatch off a Monroe boy if he continues to pitch as he did Thursday. George Gill, picked to hurl Beaumont's home opener, allowed San Antonio one scratch hit, narrowly missing a perfect game. He didn't walk a man. Gill, built along the lines of Schoolboy Rowe, should be ready for major league duty next spring if he picks up a little weight.

CHAMPION

Willard Dean, Centenary slugger, won the National A. A. U. heavy-weight championship Friday night and he won it against overwhelming odds. Dean's foes averaged more than 200 pounds and he beat one boy who tipped the beam at 215. Willard weighed in at 170. Possibly Dean's A. A. U. victory will silence some of his critics who announced he wasn't all his coach claimed for him.

TRYOUTS

In reply to numerous inquiries, we're giving you the dates and place for the south's Olympic track and field tryouts. They'll be held at Loyola stadium in New Orleans on May 22-23. Original plans listed Baton Rouge as the site but that has been changed.

HITTING

In three games during the Ruston rally, W. B. Stewart, third baseman for the champion Ouachita parish high school Lions, was at bat nine times and got six hits, including a home run, two triples, two doubles and a single. That's poling that old apple. Incidentally, the Lions hit .513 as a team.

HABIT

Winning has become a habit with Detroiters. Last week the Red Wings copped the Stanley Cup, trophy emblematic of the world's hockey championship. The Detroit Tigers are two-time American league champs, and currently rule the roost as 1935 World Series victors. The Detroit Lions copped the national football title. Joe Louis, according to reports a fairly promising boxer, is a resident of Detroit. And Gar Wood, speedboat king, hangs his hat in the Motor City. The that.

EDUCATION

One of the greatest basketball players ever to perform in college circles, Paul Birch, ex-Duquesne university ace, has played one year with the New York Celtics' professional team, and here is what he has to say about the money game: "After one season with the Celtics, I find I have learned more basketball playing one winter with them than I did during all my high school and college careers. No amateur team stands a chance with a topnotch pro outfit."

CRACKS OF THE WEEK

George Earnshaw, after the Dodgers had absorbed a beating by the Giants in the opening game of the season last Tuesday: "Well, we're only one game out of first place."

Wilmer Allison, after the U. S. Davis cup hopefuls had trimmed Mexico: "If we can beat Australia, we stand a good chance of regaining the Davis cup." Yeah, Wilmer, if.

Mike Jacobs, after being told that San Diego would pay him a million for the Louis-Schmeling fight: "Sounds great. All we need now is the million."

Tom Yawkey, after Joe Cronin got his high priced thumb in the way of a throw from third: "One broken thumb isn't going to beat us in this pennant race." But how about the Tigers and Indians, Mr. Yawkey?

Fourteen of the 16 major league managers in a nation-wide broadcast last Monday: "We'll finish in the first division. Yessir, we'll be right in there." That makes a one-club second division for each league.

Casey Stengel, in a parting shot at Umpire Beans Reardon Wednesday: "You would be a fine asset to baseball if you had stayed in the movies."

Frankie Frisch, after offering $4,000 for Joe Stripp: "I believe he'll be worth all of that."

Downing And Davis Low; Matches For Club Title Start Today

The qualifying round in the club championship tournament at the Municipal Golf club closed yesterday, with Ben Downing, Jr., and Jim Davis tying for medalist honors with 74's. First round matches will start today, with one week allowed for play of each round, according to Winnie Cole, Muny club pro.

Pairings for championship matches were announced as follows: Ben Downing, Jr., vs. Bobby Oliver; A. B. Sherrard vs. Billy Downing; Jimmy Harper vs. J. B. King; Grady Nelson vs. J. P. Jackson; Jim Davis vs. K. L. Weldon; Wesley Shafro vs. Aaron Parker; Dr. T. A. Brulte vs. H. T. Taylor; Dr. R. T. Harberson vs. Tip Schier.

H. S. Parker and Joe Goyne narrowly missed qualifying for the championship play.

The annual spring handicap tournament at the Municipal club will close this week. Ray Buze defeated Vance Rhodes, 2 and 1, in one semi-final match and will meet the winner of the Brulte-Downing match for the championship. Brulte and Downing will play their semi-final match Monday, Cole said.

Dr. Harberson was medalist in the handicap tourney.

ALLEY OPENS SCHEDULE TODAY

Ouachita Wins North Louisiana Baseball Title

LOCAL LIONS COP TITLE BY BEATING DUBACH, 6 TO 2

Ruston Wins Annual Track Meet; Bastrop Girls Shade Lisbon

RUSTON, La., April 18.—(Special)—Track and field events Saturday afternoon and the finals in baseball Saturday morning concluded the thirtieth north Louisiana high school rally which attracted more than 800 pupils to the campus of Louisiana Tech this week-end.

The baseball team of Ouachita parish high school of Monroe, defeating Dubach 6-2, in the final contest Saturday morning, won the diamond championship of the rally.

Ruston, with 60 1-2 points, captured the class A cup in the track and field events for the boys. Homer, with 44 points, was second. Summerfield copped the trophy in the class B track events, amassing 55 1-2 points. Methvin finished second in the B division in the girls' track and field events, in which there was no separation of schools into groups. Bastrop nosed out Lisbon by the close margin of 19 to 18 1-2 points. In cases of ties, points were split.

No new records were set at the track meet for the boys, and this was the first time the cinder events have been conducted here for girls.

Although the final baseball game was an interesting battle from start to finish, the Dubach boys could not overcome the safe lead which the O. P. H. S. squad established in the second and third stanzas.

Sherrard of Monroe opened the scoring in the second with a homer to right field. Hinton of O. P. H. S. tallied also in that frame. Other Ouachita runs were made as follows: Takewell and Pate, in the third; Stewart, in the fifth, and Blazer, in the seventh.

Dubach's runs were made by Hunt in the second, and by E. Colvin in the third.

Leo Hartman is coach of the Ouachita parish high school champion nine, and Joe Buck Mount tutors the Dubach team.

However, Few Of Forty Who Aspire To Achievement Will Make It

By Paul Mickelson (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, April 18.—Down the sports trail: No less than 40 major league pitchers have publicly or privately set 20 or more victories as their goal this year, but you can mark it down as one of the toughest assignments in all sport. Out of approximately 150 hurlers in the majors today, there are only 26 who have achieved that distinction, over a combined total of 211 seasons.

Robert Moses Grove, old Uncle Moses of the gold-plated Boston Red Sox, leads them all with eight seasons above the charmed mark that every pitcher strives to reach. He also is a member of the "30 club," his only compatriot being the great Dizzy Dean. And Uncle Moses is off strong on his drive to make it nine years above the 20 mark.

Wesley Ferrell, teammate of old Uncle Moses, ranks second in the "20 club," having won 20 or more four times. Alvin Crowder, Dizzy Dean, George Earnshaw, Lefty Gomez, Jess Haines, Carl Hubbell, Ted Lyons and Lonnie Warneke have turned the trick three times each, while Tommy Bridges, Mel Harder, Waite Hoyt and Pat Malone succeeded twice. The one season above 20 men are Guy Bush, Watson Clark, Phil Derringer, Fred Fitzsimmons, Bill Lee, Schoolboy Rowe, Hal Schumacher, Walter Stewart, Rube Walberg, Monte Weaver, Earl Whitehill and Ben Cantwell.

Among the pitching greats who haven't done it are Paul Dean, Elden Auker, Willis Hudlin, Red Lucas, Bill Walker, Van Lingle Mungo and Firpo Marberry.

Paper skin. The Yankees aren't worried any more about their star rookie outfielder, Joe DiMaggio. They are alarmed. The report is out that Joe, rated as one of the prize prospects of the baseball age, is the victim of a "paper skin," a skin that rips at the slightest injury. His injured left foot was further injured at Washington Thursday when it was struck by a foul ball during practice. When asked when he thought Joe would get into the lineup, Manager Joe McCarthy frowned, walked around for several minutes with a worried look, and said: "I'll be darned if I know. He doesn't look so good." New York scribes will give you odds that the "Di-Mag" won't play in 50 games, which will be too bad for the Yankees.

Come back. Major league club owners, who always are open to the proposition of firing and hiring managers, are keeping their eyes on two former greats who are wowing the minors as pilots. They are Lefty O'Doul of San Francisco and Burleigh Grimes, now manager of the Louisville Colonels of the American association. Both had great seasons last year. Scouts say they rate as two of the very finest teachers in baseball.

BUDGE AND MAKO WIN IN DOUBLES

Youthful Californians Defeat Allison And Van Ryn In Finals

PINEHURST, N. C., April 18.—(AP)—Donald Budge and Gene Mako, youthful California combination, defeated Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, national champions, for the north and south tennis title today in a match which carried added significance because of its possible effect on selection of the doubles team for the Davis Cup matches with Australia.

Bitterly fought from the opening set which the veterans won 8-6, the match saw Budge and Allison each carrying the burden for his side, though ably supported by Mako and Van Ryn. Allison appeared somewhat tired while Budge was near his peak and was hitting beautifully as he and Mako captured the second, third and fourth sets by scores of 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Van Ryn put on a great exhibition of control and court covering and Mako contributed vital points with well placed smashes, but it was Budge's vicious drives that were the deciding factor in the match.

The Boston Tandem of Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson and Katharine Winthrop captured the women's doubles title from Norma Taubele and Millicent Hirsch, of New York, in straight sets by scores of 6-3, 6-4.

GOMEZ HOLDS SOX TO 5 HITS AS YANKS WIN

NEW YORK ACE GIVES UP ONLY ONE EARNED RUN

Home Runs By Gehrig And Dickey Win For Yankees In Seventh

NEW YORK, April 18.—(P)—Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, leading pitcher of the Yankees, turned in the 14th victory of his career over the Boston Red Sox today as he limited them to five hits and tumbled them out of the undefeated class by a 3-2 score.

Only one earned run was scored against Gomez. Rick Ferrell, Boston catcher, singled in the seventh, advanced to third on two infield outs and scored on Alameda's single. Red Rolfe handed the Sox their only other run in the fifth when he fumbled Rick Ferrell's easy roller.

Ostermuller, pitching for Boston, had things well under control for the first six innings, but in the seventh Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey got out their war clubs and belted homers to tie the score. The Yankees filled the bases in the eighth but Gehrig ended the threat with a fly to Cramer.

Lazzeri walked to start the ninth, advanced to third on Dickey's single and scored the winning run on Selkirk's poke past Melillo.

Gomez had singular luck against the Red Sox during his brilliant career, having lost only two games to the Boston team while winning 14. It was the second start for the pitcher this season, he having lost the opener to Washington by a score of 1 to 0.

Lloyd Brown, given a three run margin in the first inning, was effective on the mound for Cleveland, yielding seven hits.

Bill Knickerbocker, with a walk, a double and a triple, and Hal Trosky with three singles led Cleveland's 12-hit assault.

Reds Rout Warneke To Take Second Straight From Cubs

BRUNDAGE WANTS OLYMPIC MONEY

Prexy Has Lots Of Promises But Little Cash To Finance Teams

CHICAGO, April 18.—(P)—Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, cracked the whip at his official family today to start sending home definite reports on the $350,000 fund necessary to get Uncle Sam's athletes to Berlin in August.

The chief worry over problems connected with getting the squad to Germany has been plenty of reports relating that prospects for raising the huge sum are good. But he hasn't had many mentioning actual cash money.

"Less than 90 days remain before the team sail," Brundage said, "and I haven't been able to get together a definite idea of where we stand financially. If we are to have a full team, adequately equipped and accommodated, the fund campaign must have all possible assistance immediately."

The job, he said, is up to the official family, members of the various sports committees, the national collegiate A. A. U. Y. M. C. A. and the A. A. U. They must carry the cause to the public to aid the fund raising committee to get the right answer as quickly as possible.

"The committees for most of the sports have reported that they are confident of obtaining their quotas," Brundage continued, "but we need something more definite than that. I am sure the track and boxing teams will raise their quotas, however, I don't know so much about the other teams' prospects, and I have written asking for definite information so that I can prepare a report within the next two weeks."

The great Randall's Island stadium under construction in New York, has been promised for the final track and field tryouts July 10-11, but there are indications it may not be.

"If not, worried over where the tryouts will be held," Brundage said, "We can move them elsewhere if the Randall's Island plant is not ready. There are plenty of places available in the east."

Bottomley, left on bases, Cleveland 4, St. Louis 3. Van Atta, 3b., struck out. Passed ball, Glavin. Losing pitcher, Van Atta. Umpires, Kulis, Basil and Moriarty. Time, 2:14.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—(P)—The Athletics put on a four-run rally in the ninth today, but fell a run short and lost to the Washington Senators 5 to 4. The Athletics have lost all four games of the season.

Buck Newsum, knocked out of the box in the Mack rally, allowed only three hits until the ninth. After surrendering a single to Lou Finney and a home run to Wally Moses, he walked three men in a row and was relieved after Warbler's outfield fly and Lovell Dean's pinch single registry two more runs. Jack Russell extinguished the rally.

RALLY IN EIGHTH GIVES CINCINNATI 5-TO-4 VICTORY

Babe Herman Starts Chicago Ace's Downfall With Two-Run Single

CHICAGO, April 18.—(P)—Driving Babe Herman from the mound with a three run rally in the eighth, Cincinnati edged out the Cubs, 5-4 before a 4,720 shivering fans today. It was the Reds' second victory in a row over the league champions.

The Cubs built up a 3-0 lead off Lee Stine, young righthander, for Warneke, but the Chicago ace, after having to work himself out of all sorts of difficulties in four of the first six innings, weakened in the seventh when his former teammate, Babe Herman, singled home two runs and then went to pieces at the start of the eighth.

Ernie Lombardi and Lew Riggs opened the Reds tide-turning inning with singles. Goodman's grounder rolled through Second Baseman Billy Herman's legs for an error and Lombardi scored. McQuinn then singled to send home Riggs and Warneke was hooked.

ALABAMA TRACK TEAM NOSES OUT TENNESSEE. UNIVERSITY, Ala., April 18.—(P)—Despite the almost super-human efforts of Capt. Harry Anderson, the University of Alabama track team defeated the University of Tennessee here today, 61 to 51.

Anderson accounted for 28 of his team's points, winning first in the 100 and 200 dashes, the high and broad jumps and the discus throws, and finishing second to Lyon in the shot put.

Brother Vince Talked Joe DiMaggio Into First Job---And Lost His Own

By Sam Jackson

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—(P)—Joseph Thomas di Maggio, the New York Yankees' celebrated $75,000 rookie, got his first real ball playing job less on his merit than by dint of hard talking by his big brother Vince—and the deal cost Vince his own berth with a ball club.

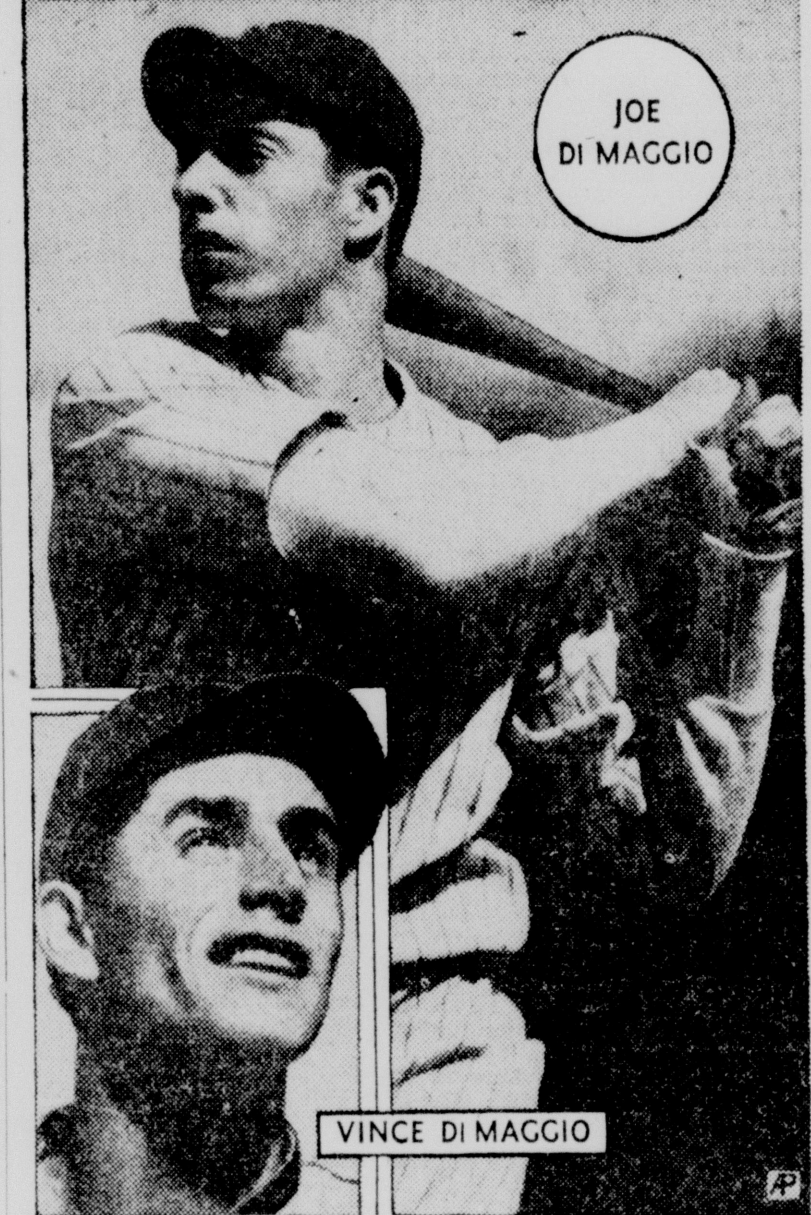

This fateful episode occurred only two years before the Yankee purchase. It illustrates how quickly the unknown boy from San Francisco's Italian quarters soared to the big top. At the time—1932—Vince was an outfielder with the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast league. His younger brother had learned baseball on city playgrounds, played a little high school, and was then battling 'em out in the midwinter league, a local semi-pro organization.

Joe was not attracting any special attention and it looked as though he were headed for the Italian fishing fleet, in which his father and another brother operated a crab boat. But Vince recognized Joe as a real ball player. Vince went to the owners of the Seals and talked him up. Although given no encouragement at first, he kept plugging. Finally the management agreed to take the lad down to spring training at Monterey. The tryout had unexpected results. Joe made the team and Vince was released. Vince now is playing with the San Diego Padres.

His second year with the Seals—1933—Joe began to burn up the circuit. He established a Coast league record by hitting in 61 consecutive games.

For Delivery in 1936. His performance impressed Yankee scouts so much that a deal was made for him in 1934 despite the fact he was out of the lineup nearly all season after injuring his knee in an automobile accident. Delivery date was set for 1936, contingent on his full recovery.

In the 1935 campaign it became apparent to the Yankees and to every pitcher on the Coast that di Maggio had recovered, all right. He batted .338. This was one point below the figure set by Oscar Eckhardt—since obtained by the Brooklyn Dodgers from the San Francisco Missions—but considering di Maggio's 34 home runs, his 151 runs batted in, his unerring throwing arm and other qualifications

M'GUIRE GOLFERS TO PLAY LAKESIDE

Two Clubs Meet In First Inter-City Match Of Season Here

The first inter-city golf match of the year here will be played today at Lakeside Country club between golfers of the McGuire Park club, of West Monroe, and the Lakeside club. The first foursome will tee off between 1 and 2 o'clock, it was announced last night by A. B. Clarkson, chairman of the Lakeside club's activities committee.

Today's match will be a handicap affair, with McGuire players using the handicap posted for them on their home course. A prize of a dozen Top Flite golf balls will be given the golfer who posts the low net score and a putter is the award for the player requiring the least number of putts for 18 holes.

The Lakeside club is in excellent shape for the first match of the season and some good scores are expected to result today.

Following are the pairings announced yesterday: Jim McKenzie and Brun Beasley, McGuire, vs. Shep Gault and Wesley Shatto, Lakeside; M. C. McDonald and Jack Rogers, McGuire, vs. H. H. Reardon and Harold Woods, Lakeside; Kenneth Holt and Ben Downing, Jr., McGuire, vs. Prioleau Ellis and Robert Guerriero, Lakeside; Leo Keenan and C. W. Wallace, McGuire, vs. George W. YANKS SEEK BLAIR. FERRIDAY, April 18.—(Special)—Nathan Blair, Ferriday athlete attending Louisiana State university continues to attract attention of major league ball clubs, the latest seeking his services being the New York Yankees. John Neil, scout for the American league club, was in Baton Rouge several days ago to see Blair, according to Blair's father, J. A. Blair who said that Nathan has not yet signed a contract to play professional ball.

Derby candidates, tried their mettle in the Chesapeake stakes today and the lone filly of the lot, William du Pont, Jr.'s Gold Seeker, won the mile and a sixteenth test in a great finish. The trim, brown daughter of Messenger and Golden Fair drove ahead 50 yards from the wire and whipped Brookmeade stable's tiring Delphinium by a length and a half.

Bomar stable's Grand Slam was third, and Whetley stable's Teufel, old debut, Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Clocks was fourth and Paul Junior, the only non-eligible in the field, brought up the rear.

Tintagel, winner of the 1935 Belmont Futurity in which Hollywood was second, was the 9 to 10 choice despite his defeat in the Paumonok Handicap run over the same distance Wednesday. Hollywood, third largest money winner of the season, last year with a victory in the Pimlico Futurity as his major triumph, was held at 11 to 5.

Delphinium was worth $12.90 for $2 to place, and Grand Slam, $4.70 to show.

Gold Seeker's time was 1:46 1-5 compared with the track record of 1:43 3-5 set by Cavalcade.

Art Shires Pops Back Into Sports Picture Via Wrestler-Boxer Match

By John J. Romano

Arthur "The Great" Shires topped off the weakness of a wrestler's chin when he downed George Zaharias six times in one round with blows to the chin in one of those pseudo-serio-wrestler versus fighter contests. As a fighter Shires proved beyond question of doubt that he was better gifted with a glib tongue. Even as a ball player he talked a better game than he ever performed. Art had ability and might have gone far in the game if his tongue did not get the better of him. A loose tongue plus an exaggerated ego deprived him of a chance of making good in the national pastime.

Shires cannot be blamed for being led into the controversial match with Zaharias. The latter has been schooled in the art of putting on a show, and fully realized he could twist Shires into knots and pin his shoulders whenever he wished. Taking a rap on the chin and going down is all a part of the game. Going down six times was but prolonging the fun he was having. Far better to be hit with a leather encased fist propelled by a novice than taking the full force of a forearm or elbow on the jaw.

Zaharias' means of making a living is not an easy one. He has met the best wrestlers in the game and has had to suffer more torture than he figured in order to make a match look good. In comparison, the "contest" with Shires was like prepping up for a tea party and being paid for it.

Feud Should Be Renewed. If the promoter of the Shires-Zaharias match was looking for a real crowd pleaser, he overlooked the chance to pit the Great One against Hack Wilson. That would have been a match thousands of fans would have traveled miles to witness.

N DOUBLE MAIN EVENT BOOKED FOR STADIUM

BASHERA SIGNED TO MEET RYAN IN FEATURE MATCH

Lever And Humberto Paired In Other Bout; Boxing Prelim Booked

A double main event card which Promoter Charlie Bruscatto believes will be the best show he has booked here this year, will be presented at Roosevelt stadium Tuesday night.

George "Red" Ryan, clever Massachusetts heavy-weight, will meet Ellis Basher, a newcomer who's touted as the meanest grappler now campaigning in the Southwest, in the feature match, and Juan Humberto, contender for the heavy-weight title, tangles with Dick Lever, tough Nashville entry, in the other bout. Ryan and Humberto will have wrestled here several times before.

In addition to the wrestling matches, Bruscatto has signed a four-round boxing preliminary between Joe Gully, 168, of Monroe, and K. O. Snow, 172, of West Monroe.

Basher, an iron-jawed 220-pounder from Oklahoma City, is said to be the latest sensation among the heavy-weights in this section. He is a product of Oklahoma university, where he learned plenty about the science of wrestling. When he turned professional, he quickly picked up the tactics used by the best of the means and now he goes about the country starting fights. He recently was booked to meet Cy Williams, then the king-pin of the toughies, at Shreveport and it was Basher that the crowd mobbed, instead of Williams, who usually brought down the wrath of the customers upon his head. Basher is a handsome Syrian, according to advance reports, but his good looks haven't kept him from giving a good imitation of a maniac when he enters the ring.

Ryan has wrestled here twice and each time he gave a convincing performance. He doesn't hesitate to mix it with the toughest of them, and he knows plenty of wrestling tricks. The big red-head says he's tired of taking it on the chin, and from now on he's going to use his fists to good advantage.

The Humberto-Lever match also will be an all-round affair. There seems to be some sort of grudge between the two and Bruscatto says Lever requested that he be matched with the Mexican.

"Humberto can't get any dirtier than I can and I'd like to tie up with that big Mexican," Lever said. "We can make an endurance contest out of it if he starts the rough stuff."

There's no doubt that Humberto will "start the rough stuff," no matter who crawls in there with him, so the fans will see the full fly if Lever can back up his threats.

Bruscatto also announced yesterday that he had obtained the services of Benny Mathis, said to be the leading referee in the southwest. Mathis has been handling the matches at Dallas, Houston and New Orleans, and Bruscatto said he had signed a contract to work both matches here Tuesday night.

Both Tuesday matches will be best two out of three falls, and each will have a two-hour time limit.

LINVILLE TEAM BEATS FARMVILLE, 4 TO 3

LINVILLE, La., April 18.—(Special)—The Linville high school baseball team defeated the Farmville Farmers, 4 to 3 here. Clyde Norman, local moonshiner who did not allow a single earned run, led the hitting with two single and a triple in three times at bat. He also scored three of the home team's runs with Lloyd Norman, Linville's home run following Clyde's triple accounting for the other one.

All of the visitors' scores came in the eighth inning, and were produced by three errors and a hit after two were out. They threatened again in the ninth, but two nice fielding plays prevented a score. Shortstop Thomas after fumbling a grounder momentarily in deep short, made a nice throw to the plate to cut off what would have been the tying run. And a few minutes later with the bases loaded and two out, local second baseman, ran far to his left to snag a hot ground ball and nip the runner at first by a half step.

Score by innings:

World And Olympic Records Smashed In Kansas Relays

fishing FACTS and Fancies

Bayou DeSiard waters yielded an excellent specimen of small mouth bass to the angling prowess of J. D. Cameron the past week. The frisky fighter weighed in at exactly four pounds and was taken on a small under-water type of plug with a finish closely resembling that of a shore minnow. So far as could be learned this was the largest small mouth taken from Bayou DeSiard over the past week and Mr. Cameron may be high rod for the current year. The largest of this species reported for 1935 weighed six pounds and was taken from Bayou Bartholomew.

Bass fishermen using flies in DeSiard waters had scant success while the bait casters enjoyed better luck, especially those using gray green finish minnows cast close to brush along the shore line. Temperature no doubt has its effect in keeping bass from surface strikes.

Fly fishing for bream brought nice catches to those using the familiar gnat on a pilot spinner and fished rather slowly a foot underneath the surface.

Excellent strings of bass, white perch and some few barfish were taken from Moon and White lakes, while from the smaller streams numbers of goggle-eye and bream were taken. L. B. Day had excellent luck while on a trip to Big Creek, securing goggle-eye and bream of good size and uniform fighting ability.

While fishermen working the waters of the Ouachita river below the locks at Sterlington reported fair success many said both bass and barfish were of too small a size to assure good sport. Plenty of fish were taken at the locks at Riverton and one sportsman made a particular effort to catch some of the large gar frequenting waters above the locks. Several were landed and an enormous gar of the regular tackle "busting" variety was hooked. Onlookers estimated this gar to be at least eight feet in length. Needless to say he got away.

It should be borne in mind that a large gar can easily eat twenty pounds of smaller fish in a single day, so anglers should take time out to catch and kill more of these destroyers of valuable game fish. Louisiana has probably the best bass grounds in the United States and every effort to rid streams of gar should be made. The gar is the natural enemy of the small fingerling bass. Bream and white perch are also levied upon heavily to furnish food for the gar, which has an unbounded appetite.

Procure fresh live minnows about three and one-half inches in length and salt them heavily for 24 hours before they are to be used. The salt will toughen the minnows so that they may be impaled on a 3-4 hook and with the addition of a No. 7 buckshot be cast and retrieved in the same manner as a metal or other bait casting lure. Due care must be used to impale the minnow so that the point of the hook will be just above the level of the backbone. Large minnows toughened in this manner and used with a keelinker make an excellent lure for Old John Bass when others have rendered him suspicious. This bait should be reeled in so that it will travel a few inches under water but in shallow water the bait may be reeled rapidly and should furnish plenty of strikes when handled in this fashion. A line of light test, 10 or 12 pounds is excellent for this kind of fishing as it assures rather more delicate casting and far better accuracy than a heavier test line would give.

Small streams in the vicinity of Jena have furnished excellent sport the past week. Fish of all kinds were taken in abundance and some bass of large size came from these small streams. While fishing such waters it should be borne in mind that large bass are the most wary and flies should be cast from a point where the angler can not be visible to the fish. These streams are very clear and only those fishermen exercising all due precautions will secure the larger fish. However, there are plenty of one and a half and two pound bass caught with the angler in plain sight.

DENVER ATHLETE BREAKS BAUSCH'S DECATHLON MARK

Glenn Morris Piles Up 7,576 Points; Cunningham Unimpressive

By Whitney Martin
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
LAURENCE, Kan., April 18.—(AP)—One world record was broken, the Olympic decathlon mark bettered and an intercollegiate record tumbled as 10,000 spectators watched a preview of United States track and field hopefuls in the fourteenth annual Kansas relays here today.

The meet also marked the 1936 outdoor debut of Glenn Cunningham, former University of Kansas runner and holder of the world mile record. Cunningham won his event in 15:00 of 3:57.1, but provided no answer to the question of whether his best days are before or behind him.

The meet and decathlon record were bettered by a sturdy Fort Collins, Colo., automobile salesman, Glenn Morris. Competing under the colors of the Denver Athletic club, Morris rolled up the impressive total of 7,576 points in his first try at the decathlon.

The Olympic record of James Bausch, set in 1932, translated into the new scoring system is 7,322 points. The meet record, also set by Bausch in 1932, and similarly translated, is 7,465.

The Emporia, Kans. Teachers college distance medley relay quartet, anchored by Archie Sam Romani, national intercollegiate mile champion, raced through its variety of distances in 10:12.7. The world and American record is 10:11 set by Manhattan college of New York in 1933.

Northwestern's spring medley relay team of Heg, Millett, Keitel and Fleming covered that event in 3:24.4 to shatter by two tenths of a second the intercollegiate record performance of Ohio State in 1931. Texas was second to Northwestern.

Three meet records were established in events appearing on the program for the first time because of their connection with the Olympic tryout and the three events—the 400-meter hurdles, the 3,000-meter steeplechase, and the hop, step and jump—are Olympic contests.

The fourth record established was in the one-mile team race, which replaced the four-mile university relay. Nelson of Oklahoma won the 400-meter hurdles in 55.4 seconds. Deckard of Indiana won the steeplechase in 9:30.4. Lloyd Cardwell of Nebraska set the hop, step and jump mark at 46 feet 9 3/4 inches. Indiana won the mile team race in 4:23.3, three of the Hoosiers' four runners finishing in a dead heat.

The meet failed to develop the record-cracking orgy of last year when eight marks fell. H. W. (Bill) Hargis, Kansas coach who developed Cunningham, attributed this to the slight chill in the air and the fact that cold weather has hampered the athletes in their training.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)
The fast-stepping Alexandria Aces continued their winning ways in the Evangeline league race Saturday, toppling the Lafayette White Sox 10 to 4 to maintain their position at the top of the standings.

The Aces landed hard on the offerings of two Sox hurlers and turn back the invaders under a barrage of 13 safe blows, while Harris, Ace moundsman, allowed but five hits.

Bourgeois turned in a six-hit performance to keep the Opelousas club in the second place with a 7-3 win over New Iberia. Three New Iberia errors contributed to the victory.

A rousing ninth inning rally in which they tallied four times enabled Abbeville's Athletics to nose out the Jeanerette Blues 9 to 8 after trailing from the start. The game was held up for 15 minutes by a free-for-all fight in which virtually every player on both teams participated.

A home run by Art Bartelli, second baseman, in the ninth inning with the score tied gave the Rayne Birds an 8-6 victory over Lake Charles' faltering Skippers. Both teams slugged the ball hard, the Birds gathering 10 safeties while the losers rang up 11.

NETTLED NETTER

J. Gilbert Hall, No. 8 ranking tennis player in the United States, is a bit peeved, judging from his expression. Hall had just returned a drive in the recent lawn tennis tournament at Bermuda, and apparently it went out of bounds to score a point for his opponent.

WASHINGTON CREWS WIN THREE REGATTA EVENTS

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—(AP)—Washington made a clean sweep of the rowing regatta with the University of California here today, winning all three races by convincing margins.

Each Washington crew bettered the course record in its class.

gaging the Hodge Papermakers at Hodge.

The Ruston club, seventh member of the circuit, remains idle today. Manager Larry Fox's aggregation swings into action Wednesday, however, in their home opener.

All clubs have been working hard for the past month and are reported in fine shape for the openers. The Engineers, who made a sweep of both the first and second half pennants last year, have practically their same club back in uniform this season and will be favorites to repeat. The Brown Paper mill squad, which pushed the Sterlington aggregation so close in the last campaign, has added new strength and expects to go to the top.

The Monroe druggists, making their debut in the league, have made plans which they hope will upset the rush of the other clubs to the league pennant. Manager E. C. Hunt, who has taken the job of piloting the Druggists, has built his team around a flock of local youngsters with just enough veterans to keep them steady in a pinch. The team is fast and hard working, and Manager Hunt is confident that he has a winner.

Winfield and Hodge, along with the locals, will also be making their first appearance in the Valley circuit. Like the Druggists, they have gone to a lot of pains to round out teams they hope will be better than any of the others and will come on the field equally as confident that they can win.

The L. B. Faulk post No. 13 of the American Legion here has been taken to give official backing to the Druggists and have been pushing an advance ticket sale which they predict will put a record crowd in Casino park this afternoon.

An added feature of the battle here will be preliminary track and field events in which boys of all ages are eligible to compete. Prizes to the winners of the events are being given by local merchants and the Legion. Coach Percy Brown, of Neville high school, and Coach Vernon "Lefty" Haynes, of Ouachita parish high school, will be in charge of the preliminary entertainment.

All who expect to compete in the contests are requested to be present at the park at 1:30 p. m. The events will begin at 2 o'clock.

Mayor Arnold Bernstein, who Friday issued a proclamation designating today as "baseball day," will be present to put an official touch to the ceremonies by pitching the first ball of the game. The Teflis Grotto band will be on hand to furnish music for the opener.

Monroe has a strong pitching staff which includes Louis Ulmer, a teammate of "Schoolboy" Rowe during Big Six days; Britton "Lefty" Horton, a local semi-pro who had a four week's tryout with the Fort Worth, Texas, team this spring; Flynn Wallace, an ex-Fairbanks player; Ed Stroud, Neville high school and American Legion junior league star; and A. D. Nolen, former Rayville player.

The local infield includes Tom Adams, R. D. Farr, Nick Bruscatto, "Polly" Phelps, Jimmy Vorhoff, Willie Black, Donnie Godwin, W. B. Stewar, Frankie Bono and Bill Bickham. Farr, Bruscatto, Black, Adams, Godwin, Stewart and Bickham are all local boys with enough experience in high school and American Legion junior or semi-pro ball to make them excellent performers. "Polly" Phelps is an old ex-Monroe Cotton Station leaguer. Vorhoff was formerly second baseman for Shreveport in the Texas league and spent last season managing the Abbeville club in the Evangeline league. Bono has experience with semi-pros at Lake Charles. Sterling McLain, Norris "Country" Hampton, Eddie Bowles and Wayne McDonald, all local youngsters, form the Druggists' outfield along with Elvin "Buck" Ladner, a former Bay St. Louis semi-pro.

President Dent has assigned the umpires as follows: I. N. Peters, 14 Monroe; Bill Bagwell, at Hodge, and Hal Willis, at Sterlington.

LARRY GILBERT FEELING BETTER

Pelicans' Manager, In Memphis Hospital, Shows Improvement

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 18.—(AP)—Larry Gilbert, popular New Orleans baseball leader, was "feeling much better" this afternoon.

The 45-year-old manager of the Pelicans entered a hospital here yesterday. Physicians said he was in a serious, but not critical condition. Weak from loss of blood, he was given a transfusion last night.

"I still feel a little weak," Gilbert told visitors, including Thomas R. Watkins, president of the Memphis club, who called on him today. "However," he added, "I feel much better than I did yesterday."

A physician said Gilbert would be required to rest in preparation for an operation. He gained strength today, and there were indications the operation for hemorrhoids may be performed Monday.

Gilbert stopped off here yesterday when his team passed through en route to Little Rock. He left the players in charge of Chick Autry, catcher, and Bob Dowie, coach.

Mrs. Gilbert is with him.

Gilbert, winner of five Southern association pennants since he took over the New Orleans management in 1923, and classed as one of the smartest baseball men in the country, has not been in good health for some time.

SCOTLANDVILLE NINE TO PLAY FERRIDAY STARS

FERRIDAY, La., April 18.—(Special)—The Ferriday All-Stars will meet the Strong Scotlandville Pelicans here tomorrow afternoon at the Fair Ground park beginning at 3:15 o'clock.

The locals defeated the Monroe Drillers, 11 to 6, in their opener here last Sunday, but are expecting a much harder battle with the Pelis. Both teams are reported in good shape for the game.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT BOOKED FOR STADIUM

Lever And Humberto Paired In Other Bout; Boxing Prelim Booked

A double main event card which promoter Charlie Bruscato believes will be the best show he has booked here this year, will be presented at Roosevelt stadium Tuesday night.

George "Red" Ryan, clever Massachusetts heavyweight, will meet Elias Basher, a newcomer who's touted as the meanest grappler now campaigning in the South-west, in the feature match, and Juan Humberto, contender for the heavyweight title, tangles with Dick Lever, tough Nashville entry, in the other bout. Ryan, Humberto and Lever have all wrestled here several times before.

In addition to the wrestling matches, Bruscato has signed a four-round boxing preliminary between Joe Gully, 168, of Monroe, and K. O. Snow, 172, of West Monroe.

Basher, an iron-jawed, 220-pounder from Oklahoma City, is said to be the latest sensation among the heavyweights in this section. He is a product of Oklahoma university, where he learned plenty about the science of wrestling. When he turned professional, he quickly picked up the tactics used by the best of the means and now he goes about the country starting riots. He recently was booked to meet Cy Williams, then the champion of the toughies, at Shreveport and it was Basher that the crowd mobbed, instead of Williams, who usually brought down the wrath of the customers upon his head. Basher is a handsome Syrian, according to advance reports, but his good looks haven't kept him from giving a good imitation of a maniac when he enters the ring.

Ryan has wrestled here twice and each time he gave a pleasing performance. He doesn't hesitate to mix it with the toughest of them, and he knows plenty of wrestling tricks. The big red-head says he's tired of taking it on the chin, and from now on out he's going to use his fists to good advantage.

The Humberto-Lever match also will be an all-rough affair. There seems to be some sort of grudge between the two and Bruscato says Lever requested that he be matched with the Mexican.

Humberto can't get any dirtier than I can and I'd like to tie up with that big Mexican," Lever said. "We can make an endurance contest out of it if he starts the rough stuff."

There's no doubt that Humberto will "start the rough stuff," no matter who crawls in there with him, so the fans will see the fur fly if Lever can back up his threats.

Bruscato also announced yesterday that he had obtained the services of Benny Mathis, said to be the leading referee in the southwest. Mathis has been handling the matches at Dallas, Houston and New Orleans, and Bruscato said he had signed a contract to work both matches here Tuesday night.

LINVILLE TEAM BEATS FARMERVILLE, 4 TO 3

LINVILLE, La., April 18.—(Special)—The Linville high school baseball team defeated the Farmerville Farmers, 4 to 3 here. Clyde Norman, local moundsman, who did not allow a single earned run, led the hitting with two single and a triple in three times at bat. He also scored three of the home team's runs following Clyde's triple accounting for the other one.

All of the visitors' scores came in the eighth inning, and were produced by three errors and a hit after two were out. They threatened again in the ninth, but two nice fielding plays prevented a score. Shortstop Thomas after fumbling a grounder momentarily in deep short, made a nice throw to the plate to cut off a hit that would have been the tying run. And a few minutes later with the bases loaded and two out, Pace, local second baseman, ran far to his left to snag a hot ground ball and nip the runner at first by a half step.

Score by innings:
Farmerville 000 000 130—3
Linville 001 010 20x—4
Taylor and Gullede; C. Norman and L. Norman.

World And Olympic Records Smashed In Kansas Relays

fishing FACTS and Fancies

Bayou DeSiard waters yielded an excellent specimen of small mouth bass to the angling prowess of J. D. Cameron the past week. The frisky fighter weighed in at exactly four pounds and was taken on a small under-water type of plug with a finish closely resembling that of a shore minnow. So far as could be learned this was the largest small mouth taken from Bayou DeSiard over the past week and Mr. Cameron may be high road for the current year. The largest of this species reported for 1935 weighed six pounds and was taken from Bayou Bartholomew.

Bass fishermen using flies in DeSiard waters had scant success while the bait casters enjoyed better luck, especially those using gray green finch minnows cast close to brush along the shore line. Temperature no doubt had its effect in keeping bass from surface strikes.

Fly fishing for bream brought nice catches to those using the familiar mat on a pilot spinner and fished rather slowly a foot underneath the surface.

Excellent strings of bass, white perch and some few barfish were taken from Moon and White lakes, while from the smaller streams numbers of goggle-eye and bream were taken. L. B. Day had excellent luck while on a trip to Big creek, securing goggle-eye and bream of good size and uniform fighting ability.

While fishermen working the waters of the Ouachita river below the locks at Sterling reported fair success many said both bass and barfish were of too small a size to assure good sport. Plenty of fish were taken, at the lock at Riverton, and one sportsman made a particular effort to catch some of the large gar frequenting waters above the locks. Several were landed and an enormous gar of the regular tackle "busting" variety was hooked. Onlookers estimated this gar to be at least eight feet in length. Needless to say he got away.

It should be borne in mind that a large gar can easily eat twenty pounds of smaller fish in a single day, so anglers should take time out to catch and kill more of these destroyers of valuable game fish. Louisiana has probably the best bass grounds in the United States and every effort to rid streams of gar should be made. The gar is the natural enemy of the small fingerling bass. Bream and white perch are also levied upon heavily to furnish food for the gar, which has an unbounded appetite.

Procure fresh live minnows about three and one-half inches in length and salt them heavily for 24 hours before they are to be used. The salt will toughen the minnows so that they may be impaled on a 3-0 hook and with the addition of a No. 7 buckshot be cast and retrieved in the same manner as a metal or other bait casting lure. Due care must be used to impale the minnow so that the point of the hook will be just above the level of the backbone. Large minnows toughened in this manner and used with a keel sinker make an excellent lure for O. J. John Bass when others have rendered him suspicious. This bait should be reeled in so that it will travel a few inches under water but in shallow water the bait may be reeled rapidly and should furnish plenty of strikes when handled in this fashion. A line of light test, 10 or 12 pounds is excellent for this kind of fishing as it assures rather more delicate casting and far better accuracy than a heavier test line would give.

Small streams in the vicinity of Jena have furnished excellent sport the past week. Fish of all kinds were taken in abundance and some bass of large size came from these small streams. While fishing such large streams should be borne in mind that water bass are the most wary and flies should be cast from a point where the angler can not be visible to the fish. These streams are very clear and only those fishermen exercising all due precautions will secure the larger fish. However, there are plenty of one and a half and two pound bass caught with the angler in plain sight.

With the absence of high water this year Bayou Bartholomew is expected to clear up ahead of time. This stream has received its full quota of fish from the state hatchery and was well stocked with fish before that. Bartholomew is the home of the small mouth bass and the swift waters there have been the scene of many surprises so it will dry fly fishermen. Last year flies of many patterns were used in the same day and with equal success. A boat is an absolute necessity in fishing the lower reaches of this stream.

But few more days will have to elapse before white perch will begin to strike dry flies on the surface. A good floating lure in red and white is predicted by some local fishermen as being just the thing to assure good catches of these fine fish. Dressing the fly in red and white will float more easily and keeping the leader free of any kind of dressing so it will sink quickly is said to be of advantage in fishing for these beautiful fish.

White perch must be handled carefully when setting the hook as they most generally are caught in the lacy structure on the sides of the mouth. Too hard an attempt to set the hook will generally tear out and let the fish escape. Flies tied on medium sized hooks and the use of a somewhat longer leader than the average is said to be of help in taking white perch.

DENVER ATHLETE BREAKS BAUSCH'S DECATHLON MARK

By Whitney Martin (Associated Press Sports Writer)

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 18.—(AP)—One world record was broken, the Olympic decathlon mark bettered and an intercollegiate record tumbled as 10,000 spectators watched a preview of United States track and field hopefuls in the fourteenth annual Kansas relays here today.

The meet also marked the 1936 outdoor debut of Glenn Cunningham, former University of Kansas runner and holder of the world mile records. Cunningham won his event, the 1500 meters, in the comparatively slow time of 3:57.1, but provided no answer to the question of whether his best days are before or behind him.

The meet and decathlon record were bettered by a sturdy Fort Collins, Colo., automobile salesman, Glenn Morris. Competing under the colors of the Denver Athletic club, Morris rallied up the impressive total of 7,576 points in his first try at the decathlon.

The Olympic record of James Bausch, set in 1932, translated into the new scoring system is 7,392 points. The meet record, also set by Bausch in 1932, and similarly translated, is 7,465.

Four events new to the relays were run, the winners automatically setting new marks.

The excitement created by announcement of Morris' feat scarcely had faded before the fans were thrilled by a major record-shattering performance.

The Emporia, Kans. Teachers college distance medley relay quartet, anchored by Archie Sam Roman, national intermediate mile champion, raced through the variety of distances in 10:12.7. The world and American record is 10:14 set by Manhattan college of New York in 1933.

Northwestern's spring medley relay team of Heg, Millett, Keitel and Fleming covered that event in 3:27.4 to shatter by two tenths of a second the intercollegiate record performance of Ohio State in 1931. Texas was second to Northwestern.

Three meet records were established in events appearing on the program for the first time because of their connection with the Olympic tryout and the three events—the 400-meter hurdles, the 3000-meter steeplechase and the hop, step and jump—are Olympic contests.

The fourth record established was in the one-mile team race, which replaced the four-mile university relay. Nelson of Oklahoma won the 400-meter hurdles in 5:54 seconds. Decker of Indiana won the steeplechase in 9:30.4. Lloyd Cardwell of Nebraska set the hop, step and jump mark at 46 feet 9 3/4 inches. Indiana won the mile team race in 4:23.7, three of the Hoosiers' four runners finishing in a dead heat.

The meet failed to develop the record-cracking orgy of last year when eight marks fell. H. W. (Bill) Hargiss, Kansas coach who developed Cunningham, attributed this to the slight chill in the air and the fact that cold weather has hampered the athletes in their training.

NETTLED NETTER

J. Gilbert Hall, No. 8 ranking tennis player in the United States, is a bit peeved, judging from his expression. Hall had just returned a drive in the recent lawn tennis tournament at Bermuda, and apparently it went out of bounds to score a point for his opponent.

WASHINGTON CREWS WIN THREE REGATTA EVENTS

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—(AP)—Washington made a clean sweep of the rowing regatta with the University of California here today, winning all three races by convincing margins.

Each Washington crew bettered the course record in its class. The husky varsity won the main three mile race by more than two lengths.

Official time in the varsity was 16:08. The old record, set by Washington in 1934, was 16:33.4.

Washington won the junior varsity by seven lengths, and the freshman by about five.

Washington's time on the Jayvee race, 16:42.2, compared with the record set by California in 1932 at 17:14.6.

gaging the Hodge Papermakers at Hodge.

The Ruston club, seventh member of the circuit, remains idle today. Manager Larry Fox's aggregation swings into action Wednesday, however, in their home opener.

All clubs have been working hard for the past month and are reported in fine shape for the openers. The Engineers, who made a sweep of both the first and second half pennants last year, have practically their same club back in uniform this season and will be favorites to repeat. The Brown Paper mill squad, which pushed the Sterling aggregation so close in the last campaign, has added new strength and expects to go to the top.

The Monroe druggists, making their debut in the league, have made plans which they hope will upset the rush of the other clubs to the league pennant. Manager E. C. Hunt, who has taken the job of piloting the Druggists, has built his team around a flock of local youngsters with just enough veterans to keep them steady in a pinch. The team is fast and hard working, and Manager Hunt is confident that he has a winner.

Winnfield and Hodge, along with the locals, will also be making their first appearance in the Valley circuit. Like the Druggists, they have gone to a lot of pains to round out teams they hope will be better than any of the others and will come on the field equally as confident that they can win.

The L. B. Faulk post No. 13 of the American Legion here has undertaken to give official backing to the Druggists and have been pushing an advance ticket sale which they predict will put a record crowd in Casino park this afternoon.

An added feature of the battle here will be preliminary track and field events in which boys of all ages are eligible to compete. Prizes to the winners of the events are being given by local merchants and the Legion.

Coach Percy Brown, of Neville high school, and Coach Vernon "Lefty" Haynes, of Ouachita parish high school, will be in charge of the preliminary entertainment.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 18.—(P)—Cotton ended the week in a strong manner today as general buying came into all positions during the two-hour trading period.

May closed at 11.35, or 8 points higher and July was 7 points up at 11.07. New crop positions showed average gains of 25 cents a bale for October at 10.43 and January at 10.47.

Buying was based on a bullish interpretation placed on recent weather developments as well as the understanding that short selling in old crop options might run into cotton pool buying orders.

There was some transferring of hedges during the day as well as speculative buying in the distant. Exports today were 24,244 bales. Cotton futures closed very steady at net advances of 5 to 8 points.

MISTRIAL ENTERED IN ASSAULT CASE

SHREVEPORT, La., April 18.—(P)—A mistrial was entered today in the case of W. T. Salyers, former local pharmacist, tried in Caddo parish district criminal court on a charge of assault upon Mrs. Marguerite Burleson, bookkeeper in a downtown store, on the night of March 2.

The 5-man jury, after an all-night deliberation, reported to Judge J. H. Stephens that they had been unable to reach an agreement. The court instructed the jury to continue its deliberations, but when it reported again its members said the reaching of an agreement was impossible. Then a mistrial was ordered entered and the jury discharged.

OMAHA NEGRO QUARTET TO SING HERE MONDAY

The Loving Four Gospel Singers, negro quartet of Omaha, Nebraska, will render a special program Monday night at Martin temple, negro Methodist church located at North Nineteenth and Adams street. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

Recognized for religious fervor in its renditions, the quartet will present old-time hymns and negro spirituals. Sponsors of the program said there would be no admission charge.

The group will sing tonight at the Triumph Baptist negro church on Tenth and Calypso streets. The program will start at 8 o'clock. Reserved seats for white people will be provided and a small sum will be charged for admission.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 18.—(P)—Cotton ended the week in a strong manner today as general buying came into all positions during the two-hour trading period.

May closed at 11.35, or 8 points higher and July was 7 points up at 11.07. New crop positions showed average gains of 25 cents a bale for October at 10.43 and January at 10.47.

Buying was based on a bullish interpretation placed on recent weather developments as well as the understanding that short selling in old crop options might run into cotton pool buying orders.

There was some transferring of hedges during the day as well as speculative buying in the distant. Exports today were 24,244 bales. Cotton futures closed very steady at net advances of 5 to 8 points.

May sold up to 11.47, or 8 points net higher while December advanced to 10.48, or 4 points net higher. The final tone was steady at net advances of 2 to 7 points.

Cotton futures closed steady 2 to 7 higher.

MISTRIAL ENTERED IN ASSAULT CASE

SHREVEPORT, La., April 18.—(P)—A mistrial was entered today in the case of W. T. Salyers, former local pharmacist, tried in Caddo parish district criminal court on a charge of assault to murder for an alleged attack upon Mrs. Marguerite Burleson, bookkeeper in a downtown store, on the night of March 2.

The 5-man jury, after an all-night deliberation, reported to Judge J. H. Stephens that they had been unable to reach an agreement. The court instructed the jury to continue its deliberations, but when it reported again its members said the reaching of an agreement was impossible. Then a mistrial was ordered entered and the jury discharged.

OMAHA NEGRO QUARTET TO SING HERE MONDAY

The Loving Four Gospel Singers, negro quartet of Omaha, Nebraska, will render a special program Monday night at Martin temple, negro Methodist church located at North Nineteenth and Adams street. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

Recognized for religious fervor in its renditions, the quartet will present old-time hymns and negro spirituals. Sponsors of the program said there would be no admission charge.

The group will sing tonight at the Triumph Baptist negro church on Tenth and Calypso streets. The program will start at 8 o'clock. Reserved seats for white people will be provided and a small sum will be charged for admission.

All air resistance produced by parts of a plane, except that offered by the wings, is known as "parasite drag."

I IMAGINE AS MUCH, MR. JONES, BUT YOU SEE WE'RE FROM POLICE HEADQUARTERS AND WE —

NOW LISTEN—

STAND RIGHT WHERE YOU ARE — AND UP WITH THE HANDS! — AND I'LL BOTHER YOU FOR THAT CASE — OR WHATEVER IT IS YOU'RE CARRYING.

NOW GENTLEMEN, I'M AFRAID YOU'RE ALL EXCITED. I'M MERELY A RETIRED OLD MAN. THAT CASE YOU'LL FIND TO BE QUITE HARMLESS.

JUST WHAT DO YOU CALL THIS THING?

A SMALL REFRIGERATOR, YOU MIGHT SAY. — A SPECIAL MINIATURE TESTING DEVICE.

GREAT SCOTT! IT HAS COMPARTMENTS FILLED WITH "DRY ICE"!

YES, YOU SEE I'M REALLY A SCIENTIST. I EXPERIMENT A GREAT DEAL IN REFRIGERATION AND REFRIGERANTS —

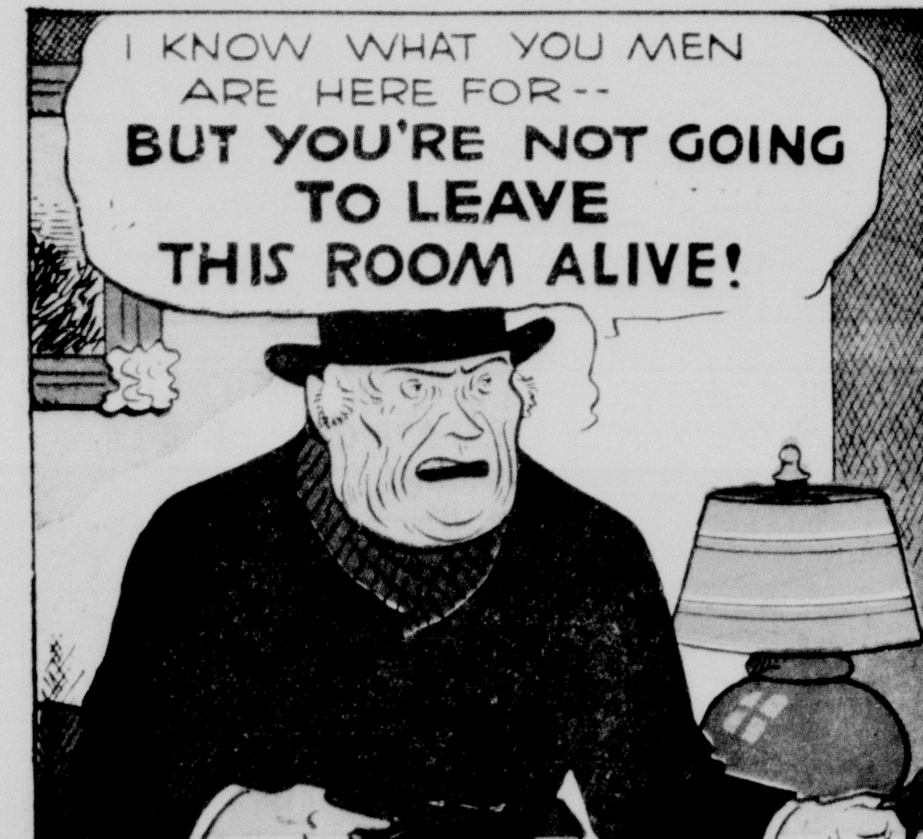

OOP! MY WATCH!

AS PAT STOOPS FOR THE WATCH —

ALL RIGHT — GRAB THE SKY — YOU TWO!

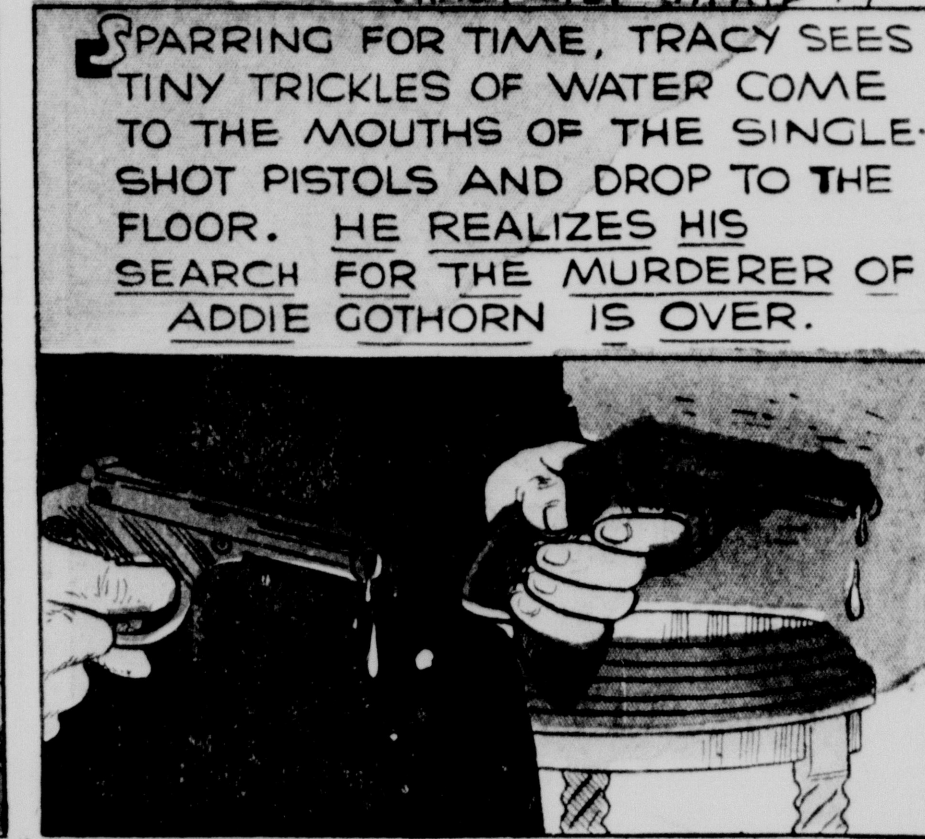

I KNOW WHAT YOU MEN ARE HERE FOR — BUT YOU'RE NOT GOING TO LEAVE THIS ROOM ALIVE!

I'VE REACHED THE END OF MY ROPE — I DON'T CARE WHAT HAPPENS TO ME!

NOW, MR. JONES, TAKE IT EASY. LET'S TALK THIS THING OVER —

SPARRING FOR TIME, TRACY SEES TINY TRICKLES OF WATER COME TO THE MOUTHS OF THE SINGLE-SHOT PISTOLS AND DROP TO THE FLOOR. HE REALIZES HIS SEARCH FOR THE MURDERER OF ADDIE GOTHORN IS OVER.

THE TOWN COUNCIL HAS THREATENED TO TAKE AWAY MY MOTORMAN'S LICENSE THE VERY NEXT TIME THIS CAR JUMPS (THE RAILS!)

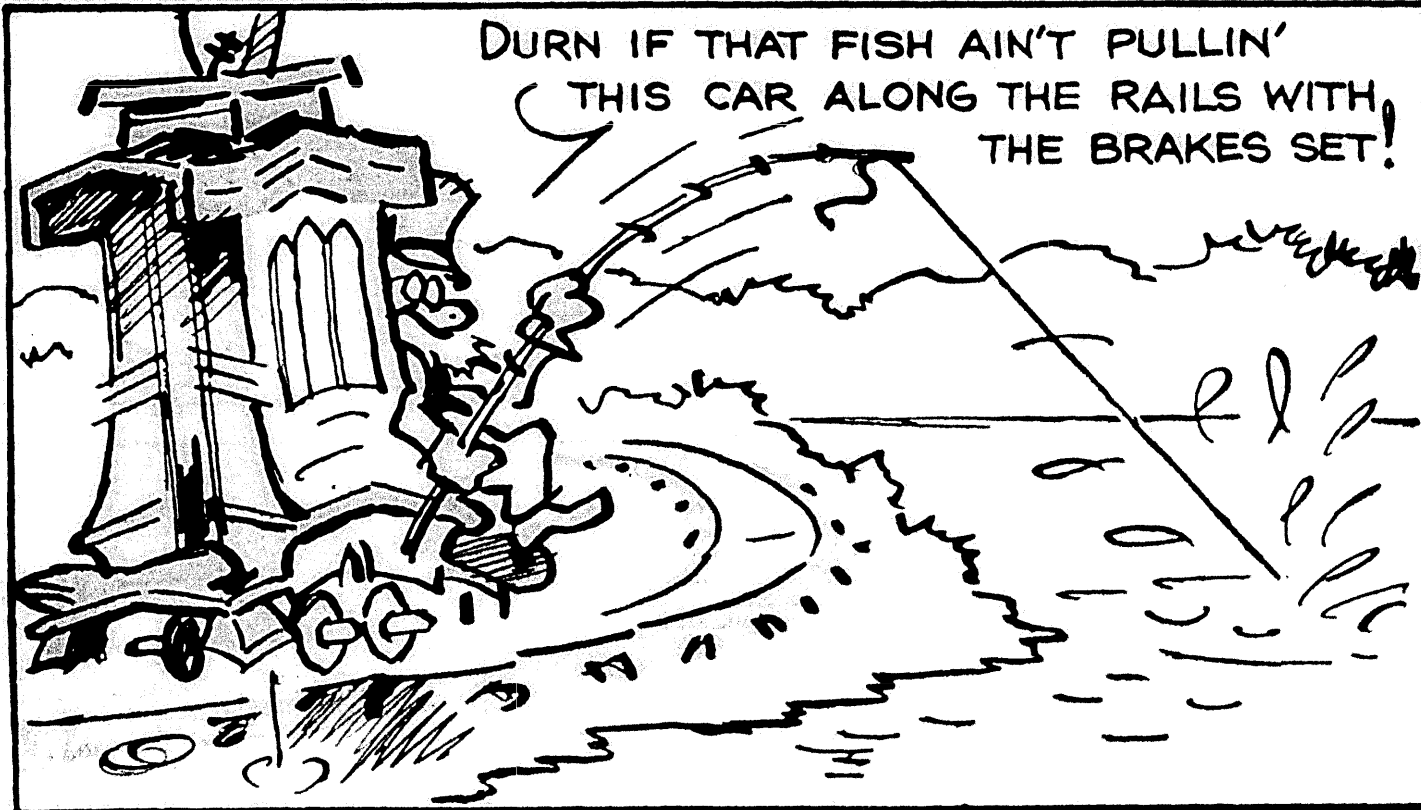

THE CAR JUST CREPT ALONG BECAUSE THE TOWN COUNCIL HAS THREATENED TO TAKE AWAY THE SKIPPER'S LICENSE THE NEXT TIME HE LEAVES (THE RAILS!)

AS LONG AS I AIN'T GOT NO PASSENGERS I MIGHT AS WELL STOP AWHILE AND FISH!

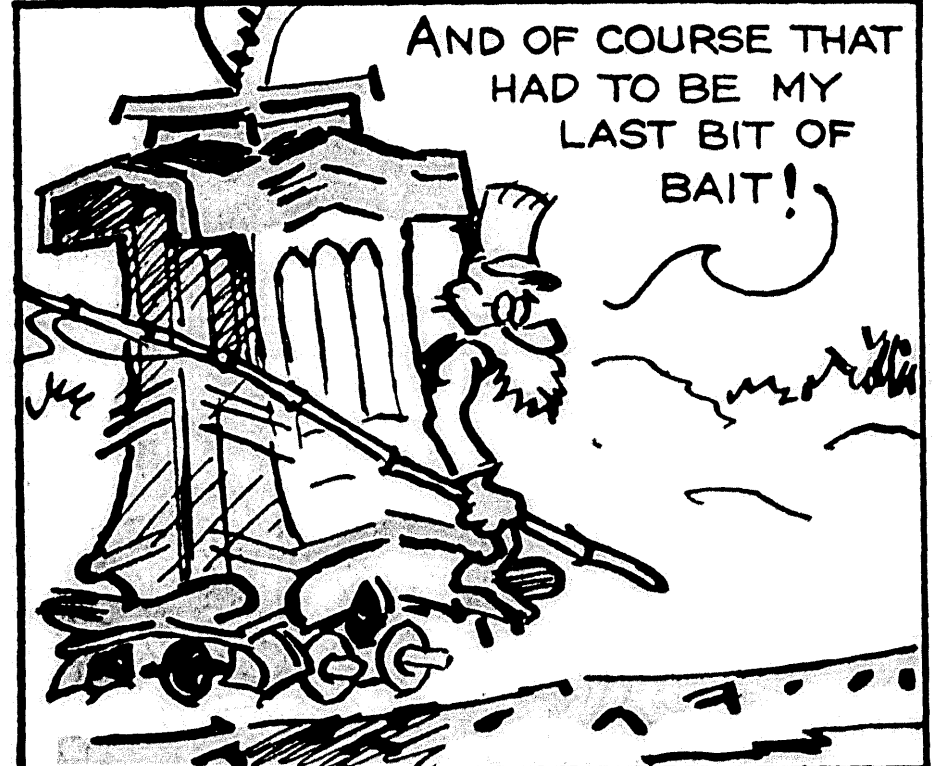

DURN IF THAT FISH AIN'T PULLIN' THIS CAR ALONG THE RAILS WITH THE BRAKES SET!

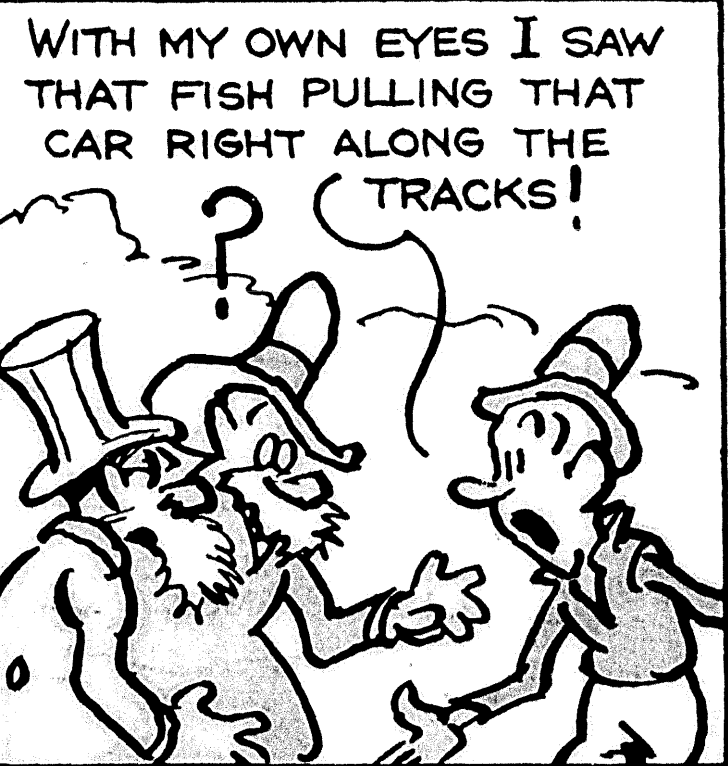

GEE WHIZ! SKIPPER! I SAW THAT BIG FISH PULLING THE CAR ALONG BEFORE HE GOT AWAY! MAYBE YOU CAN HOOK HIM AGAIN!

AND OF COURSE THAT HAD TO BE MY LAST BIT OF BAIT!

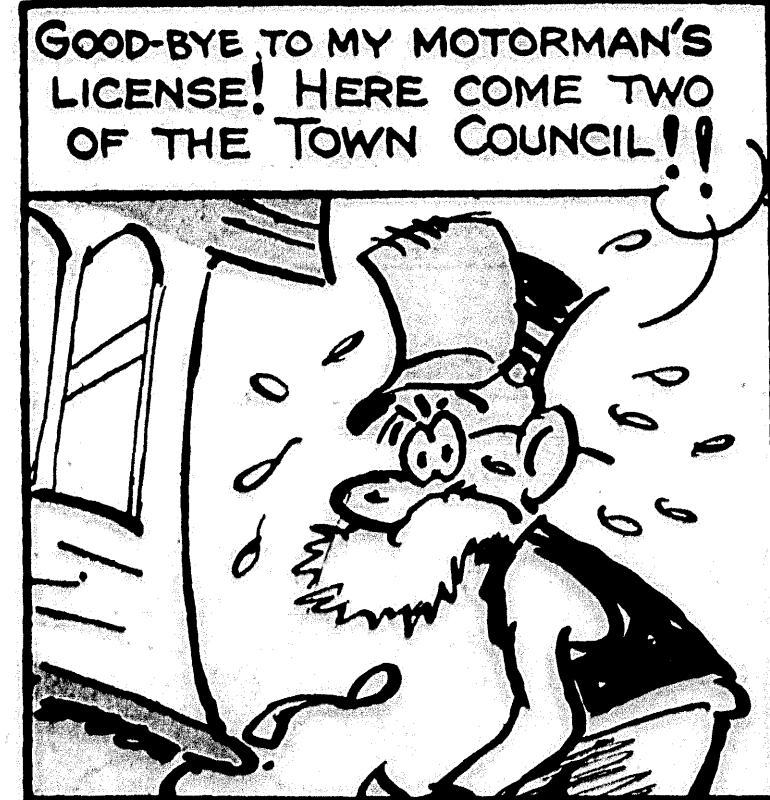

WITH MY OWN EYES I SAW THAT FISH PULLING THAT CAR RIGHT ALONG THE TRACKS!

WORSE LUCK AND MORE OF IT! SHE'S OFF THE RAILS!

ZEB WORTLE SAID YOU MIGHT HOOK THAT FISH AGAIN! WOT SORT OF A FISH WAS IT?

INDOOR GOLF SCHOOL

THAT'S IT! KEEP SWINGING.

FER TH' LOVA MIKE! PICKIN' ON A LITTLE BITTY BALL LIKE THAT! TSK-TSK-TSK.

YES SIR. GOLF IS A GRAND GAME, KAYO! EXHILARATING, EXCITING EXERCISE!

YEH- ANY MOMENT I EXPECTED YOU TO HIT TH' BALL

WHAT A LIFE THOSE PROFESSIONAL GOLFERS LEAD-FLORIDA AND CALIFORNIA IN THE WINTERS-ALL THE FASHIONABLE RESORTS IN THE SUMMERS..... AND MAMIE DON'T LIKE TO TRAVEL... OH BOY!

WHO KNOWS, WITH A LITTLE PRACTICE WITH THIS GADGET I MAY BECOME A PROFESSIONAL MYSELF.

OW!

POW!

IF YOU THINK YOU'RE SO SMART, KAYO- TRY AND SMACK OUT A FEW YOURSELF AND SEE HOW YOU LIKE IT!

WELL, IN TH' FIRST PLACE ANY DUMB BELL KNOWS TH' BALL WOULDN'T COME BACK AND SOCK YOU IF YOU TOOK THIS ELASTIC CORD OFFA IT.

KERASH!

OH- OH!

WHO BUSTED THIS WINDOW?

GOSH! IS IT BROKE ON BOTH SIDES?

NOW DON'T GO HOLLERIN' AT ME, MAMIE- IN FACT UNCLE WILLIE GOT THESE CLUBS BECAUSE HE SAID HE NEEDED EXERCISE.

OH HE DID- DID HE? GIMME THEM CLUBS!

POW! ZOW! POW!

POOR UNCLE WILLIE - I WONDER IF I SHOULD PHONE FOR TH' POLICE OR A AMBULANCE.

AND WHEN YOU FINISH BEATIN' THESE RUGS YOU TAKE THEM GOLF CLUBS BACK AND EXCHANGE 'EM FOR A PICK AND SHOVEL AND START A GARDEN.

POW! POW! POW!

KITTY HIGGINS

OW!

PINGGO
